GENEVA Dec. 15-The Rhodesian Foreign Minister, P.K. van der Byl, poured cold water today on British and American hopes that an active British role in the transition government in Rhodesia before full majority rule could break the impasse in the conference on Rhodesia's future.

The conference adjourned yesterday to give its chairman, Ivor Richard of Britain, time to visit interested parties in Africa to develop support of a formula for a British presence.

It would be designed to end the dead lock over white Rhodesian insistence on a council of state presided over by a white at the head of the transitional governmental structure and black nationalist demands for immediate black rule. It would substitute an impartial British resence.

Assistant Secretary of State John E. Reinhardt is due in London tomorrow to consult with Britain on this formula and its presentation to the various Rhodesian parties, Rhodesia's black neighbors and South Africa. But several times during a news conference today Mr. van der By referred to the project disparagingly as "Mr. Richard's shuttle service."

Rhodesian Sets Narrow Limits

The Foreign Minister of the white mi nority government said be could see no role for Britain in the transitional period except in the form of a diplomatic representation, with no administrative authority. He dismissed with scorn any possibil-ity that a British role could break the impasse over insistence by the black and white sides that military and police au-thority be in their respective bands in

Improvement Would Be Considered

As perhaps the only open Rhodesian concession since the conference began on Oct. 28, Mr. van der Byl said that the Government stood ready to consider any proposal that it judged to be an "improvement" on the Kissinger proposals.

Mr. van der Byl, who is noted and sometimes ridiculed for manners, bearing and accent more British than the British—he studied at Cambridge and served in the Sevenin Hussars—accused the British Government, not only Mr. Richard of "wrong handling of the conference from the beginning."

The result was, according to tha Foreign Minister, that the opposing sides were "farther from settlement than we were caught in cross-fire.

Bolivia, 5 Years Under Military, Takes a Step Toward Modernity

By JUAN de ONIS

I.A PAZ, Bolivia—Bolivia, which has had five years of political etablisty under a military Government, has achieved some economic growth and brought new optimism to people here who have money to invest and a choice of staying or leaving.

But the leadlested mountainers come.

But the leadlested mountainers come.

But the leadlested mountainers come.

But this landlocked mountainous country of five million people is still among ties of European origin and modern out-

The integration of this dualistic population into a modern nation, on par eco-nomically with its South American neighpors, is the declared mission of the armed forces under President Hugo Banzer Suá-rez, an army general who seized power in August 1971.

There are signs of some headway toward this goal, such as altyscraper office buildings sprouting above the cobbled streets here and modern jet airliness con-necting this mountain capital with boom-ing towns in the tropical lowlands, such as Santa Cruz and Trinidad.

There is also a targe growth in primary school enrollment, which began in 1952 when the big landowness with indentured peasants and the the mine barons were nessmen in the Government to advise the

when the big landowness with indentured peasants and the themine barons were toppled by a revolution.

At that time, only 15 percent of the peasant children even entered school. Now the figure has risen to 80 percent, according to an education survey by the National Institute of Statistics. Illiteracy has been reduced to 40 percent of the population, compared with 60 percent in 1960.

This is a measure of both how far Bolivia has progressed from backwardness and how far it has to go. The birth rate here is more than six children for each woman, but 160 of every 1,000-children die in their first year. The life expectancy of a Botivian is only 48 years.

LISBON PREMIER'S PLANE DELAYED BY BOMB THREAT

LISBON, Dec. 15 (AP)-A chartered Portuguese airliner carrying Prime Minister Mário Soares to Brazil made an unscheduled stop in the Canary Islands today after officials received a telephoned warning that a bomb was oo board.

A spokesman for TAP, the national airline, said that Mr. Soares and other passengers were evacuated from the plane and a search was conducted. He said no bomb was found and Mr. Soares, his wife and Cahinet ministers continued their flight in the Boeing 707.

The Prime Minister is making his first tour of Brazil since taking office five months ago.

The airline spokesman said the bomb threat was made in a telephone call to Lisboo airport and it was decided to land the hearest airport at Las Palmas in the Canary Islands off the Afri-

Opposition Leaders Seek Talks With Mrs. Gandhi

NEW DELHI, Dec. 15 (UPI)—Leaders of five non-Communist opposition parties met today and agreed to seek talks with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi to "normalize the situation." It was the first such move since Mrs. Gandhi imposed a state of emergency 18 months ago and thousands of oppositionists were arrested.

The Government released several imprisoned opposition leaders during the last six mooths, including Jaya Prakash Narayan, Mrs. Gandbi's most formidable political foe. Mr. Narayan, who is under treatment for a kidney ailment in Bombay, did not attend the opposition leaders' meeting but sent them his best wisbes.

Italian High Court Blocks Freeing of War Criminal

ROME, Dec. 15 (AP)—Italy's highest military court today blocked a bid for freedom by Herbert Kappler, cancerstricken former German officer sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of civilians in German-occupied Rome.

The supreme military court anoulled a decision by a military tribonal on Nov. 13 that granted provisional liberty to Mr. Kappler, who has served 28 years.

The decision to give the 69-year-old former Gestapo police chief provisional liberty had triggered a wave of protests, including one from Israel. Seventy of the victims were Jewish. Kappler was accused of directing the reprisal slaying of 335 civilians in Rome on March 24,

ITALY CONSIDERING ABORTION LAW AGAIN

Measure in Parliament Would Provide One of Most Liberal Policies in Western Europe

ROME, Dec. 15 — When 26-year-old Maria decided to have an abortion recently, she went to the headquarters of a feminist group for one of their weekly information sessions on the clandestine operations available for ending unwanted pregnancies.

A week later, in the kitchen of a house in the center of the city, she underweot a 20-minute abortion performed by two young women dressed in jeans. The two young women dressed in jeans. The two women were not doctors but had received brief training for simple abortions.

The Italian Parliament this week Is discussing a bill that would give this Roman Catholic country one of the most liberal abortion laws in Western Europe. It would allow, in effect, abortion on de-

Women now resort to clandestine abortions. Though an abortion in Italy is still legally regarded as a "crime against the race," about one million a year are carried out secretly.

Some Go Abroad for Operations

In addition to the operations set up by feminist groups, Italian women go to Britain or the Netherlands or simply go to the back streets of their hometowns. The private doctors charge up to $600. In Maria's case, she thought first of flying to London, where, she knew, specialized clinics perform abortions. But she heard from friends that feminist groups in Rome carried out such operations safely and inexpensively.

in Rome carried out such operations safe-ly and inexpensively.

At the information session, the method and aftereffects were described and she was told that it would be "a political abortion at a political price" of 50,000 lira, roughly $58, for those who could afford it. It would be less for those who could not afford the full amount.

Of the more than 60 women present, most of them between 16 and 25, those whose cases were judged as urgent were given appointments immediately. Maria's appointment was last week.

'Talking Helped the Most'

"Everything was very relaxed," she said after it was over. "One of the women performed the abortion, which was almost painless. The other held my hand and explained every step. And they talked to me all the way through. I think it was the talking that helped most."

Maria said she did not have enough money for the full fee. "I gave them what said "Before I left they gave me the name of a gynccologist just in case, and the name of medication to help keep my mustles relaxed."

:les relaxed."

The new abortion law, if approved, would nake clandestice abortions unnecessary. A court ruling two years ago allowed emination of pregnancies for reasons of physical or mental health, but it left he final decision in the hands of doctors.

Technically under the existing law, the senalty for performing abortions is two o five years in prison. But no one has seen charged formally with the offense or years. There have been arrests, but or years. There have been affests, but he people involved have been released affer brief detention.

Nine months ago, a bitter debate on the lessue in Parliament brought down the tovernment and forced early elections. If his time, however, the bill has gone hrough committee smoothly and without the spectacular publicity it received last year.

Other Problems Got More Attention

We discussed this bill while other oroblems were pressing," sald Giovanni Berlinguer, a Communist legislator who introduced the bill in Parliament. "This look the limelight off abortion and also ravoided having other measures tacked on ike before.

Mr. Berlinguer, whose brother, Enrico, is head of the Italian Communist Party, said he expects passage soon. Clandestine abortions are a "social evil we must pre-vent," he said. "Too many women die each year." The governing Christian Democratic Party, backed by the Vatican, is opposed to the bill. They say that a fetus is a viable human heing from the moment of its conception and should enjoy full legal protection under the Italian Constitution.

The other parties, if united, could put together enough votes to approve the hill.
"A woman would go to doctor of her choice," said Susanna Agnelli, the Republican Party's spokesman for the bill and sister of the chairman of Fiat, the huge automobile company. "If he considers the abortion urgent, he grants an abortion abortion urgent, he grants an abortion immediately.

"If not, he gives her a dated document and invites her to wait for seven days. If the woman still feels she wants an abortion, she simply takes the document to a hospital or special clinic and states that her social, economic position or her psychological health would be icopardized. Her word is enough, in all cases, the expenses come under social security."

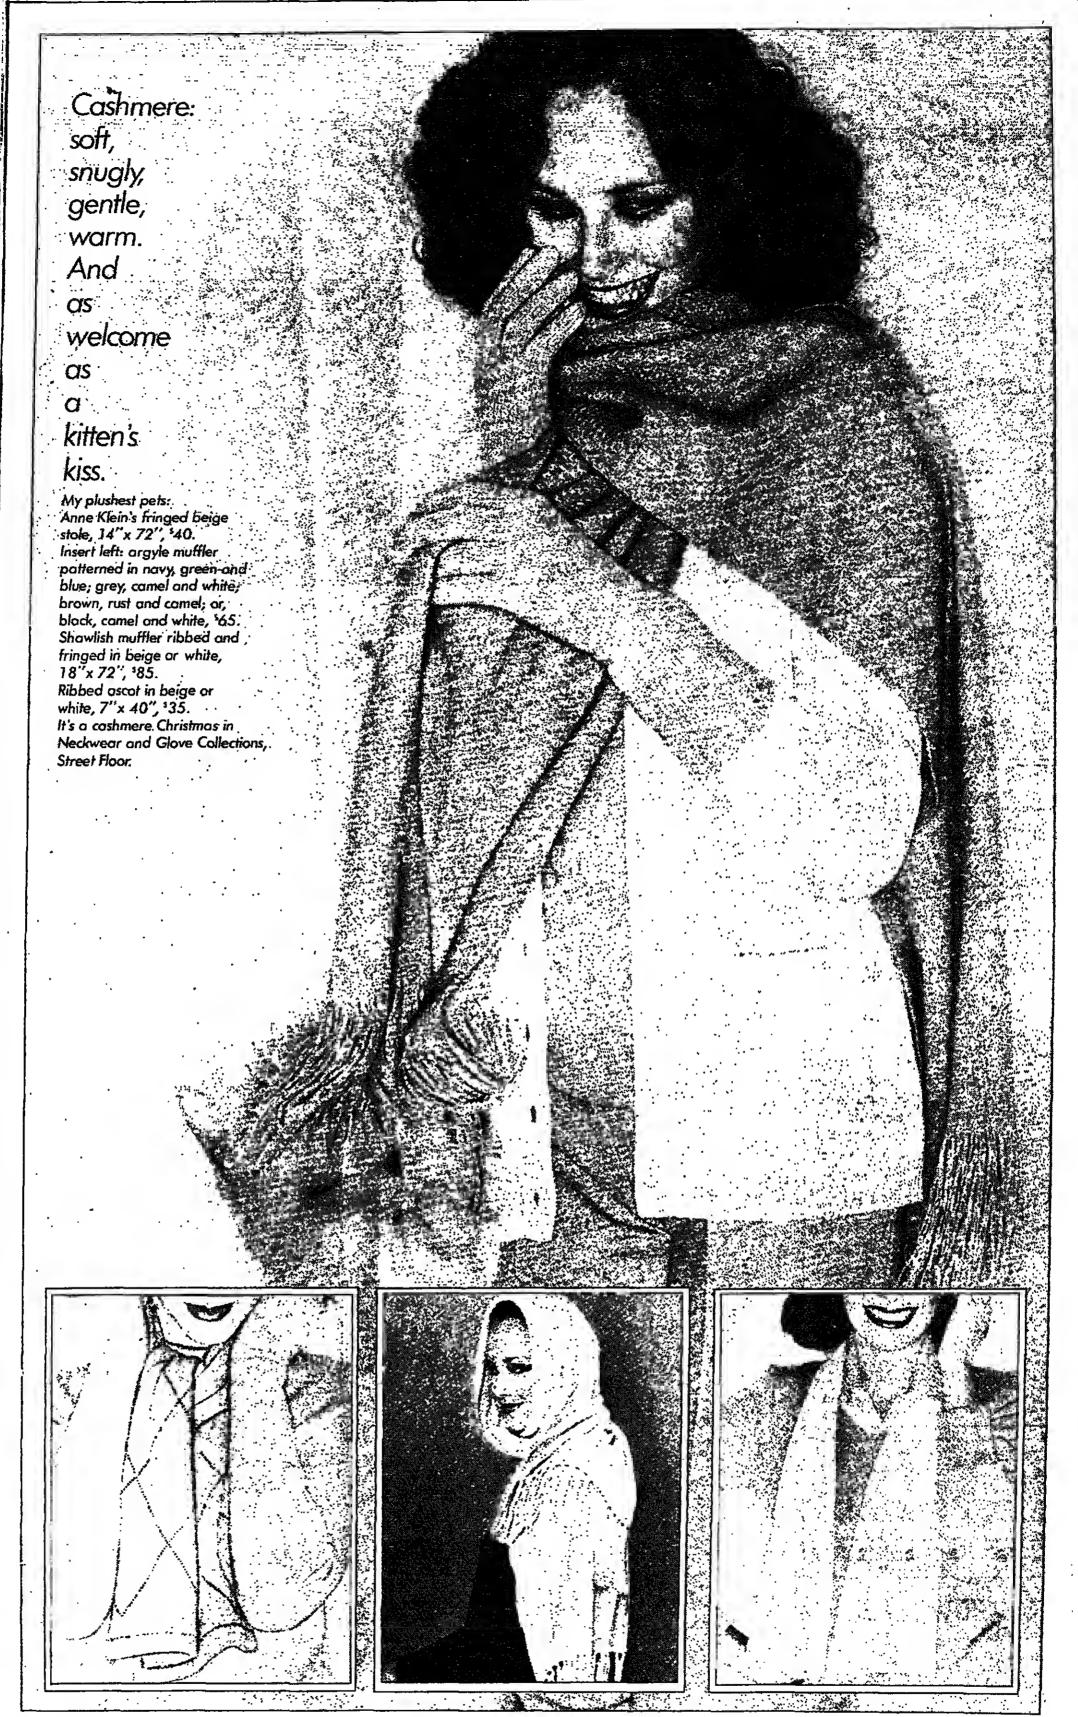

After 90 days of a pregnancy, an abor-After 90 days of a pregnancy, an abortion could be authorized only by a doctor and on serious medical grounds.

NO INDOCHINA P.O.W. IS HELD, A PANEL SAYS

I gation. In a case review, officers evaluate the evidence on the circumstances of the serviceman's disappearance. The judgment in all cases so far has been to reclassify the man as killed in action.

It is the responsibility of the Pentagon, not of the House panel, to decide if missing Americans should be presumed dead.

When a serviceman is considered missing, his wife draws her husband's pay and allowances. If be is declared dead, she gets a lump-sum payment from the military and begins drawing Social Security payments. The average lump sum apayment is about $60,000, but figures vary widely.

vary widely.

In World War II and the Korean War, servicemen originally listed as missing in action accounted for 22 percent of those killed in action, the committee report said. In Vietnam they totaled 4 percent. The panel said the difference was a result of the effectiva search and rescue effort during Indochina combat.

Representative Benjamin A. Gilman, an upstate New York Republican who was a panel member, opposed the recommendation to lift the Pentagon moratorium on case reviews. He said the reviews would tend to reduce the significance of the missing-in-action issue. He also said conclusive reviews required a full accounting by the Indochinese governments.

The committee is going out of business with the issuance of its report, Mr. Gilman noted and thus an important instrument will be lost for focusing attention on the issue.

At a news conference, Mr. Mnntgomery said identification procedures were so comprehensive that all of the remains recovered have been identified. So far there is no unknown soldier in the Indochipa war, he said.

41 Civilians Did Not Return

The panel said 2.546 Americans, including 41 civilians, had not returned from the war. Of the 33 still listed as prisoners, the panel said 11 were believed to have been prisoners who were never accounted for by their captors. The others were improperly classified as prisoners or there is no evidence to suggest that they were taken prisoner, the report said.

The panel recommended that the Pentagon ease security restrictions on some of the evidence used in the case reviews, that a memorial for the missing be erected in Arlington National Cemetery and that trained resemble forces be available in future co-chat wars.

An organization representing families of the missing in action denounced the committee's recommendation.

"The conclusion that all P.O.W.'s and M.I.A.'s should be declared dead is ludicrous, particularly in light of the recently initiated negntiations between the United States and Vietnam," said Ann Griffiths, a member of the board of directors of the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia.

"For the first time," she said. "we have en opportunity to obtain actual information on what happened to these missing Americans. The presumptuous members of the Select Committee are denying the incoming Carter administration an opportunity to conduct successful talks by stating, without proof, that all P.O.W.'s-M.I.A.'s are dead."

RUSSIANS DENY VISAS TO 4 INVITED BY MOSCOW JEWS

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 15—Four American scholars, chosen last month by the Association for Jewish Studies to attend an international symposium sponsored by Soviet Jews in Moscow, said today that they had been informed on Monday, shortly before their departure, that their request for visas had been denied.

Jacob Neusner, a schular of Judaic studies at Brown University, said that Soviet officials cited the fact that the Invitation to the conference, from Jews who had been denied permission to emigrate to Israel, had not been issued by a Soviet Government agency. Professor Neusner also said that he had been told that the Moscow apartment in which the conference was to have taken place did not have enough chairs.

Last week the organizers of the symposium were reported to have been imprisoned.

Professor Neusner and his colleagues,
Marvin Herzng of Columbia University,
Baruch Levine of New York University and Marshall Sklare of Brandeis University, will hold a news conference next

Information on Supplies of Weapon Materials to Allies Before '68 Only Now Being Assembled

By DAVID BINDER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15-The United States Government lost track of sizable quantities of weapons-grade atomic materials leased to foreign countries in the 1950's and 1960's, Administration officials said today.

cials said today.

The information on plutonium and highly enriched uranium was scattered through handwritten ledgers of the old Atomic Energy Commission and is only being recovered now through efforts of the Arms Control and Disarmament

the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Even today, officials of the agency said, the United States does not have a precise accounting of all the weapons-grade materials in all the 20 countries that received them from the United States over the last two decades.

Asked how much plutonium and highly enriched uranium remained unaccounted for, an agency official said this was secret information. He added that the information on the atomic materials already assembled was also secret. Asked whether it was a sizable amount, he said: "I consider it to be a lot."

American Control is Required

American Control Is Required

Under agreements of cooperation in the nuclear field, any weapons-grade material supplied by the United States is supposed to remain under Americao cootrol.

"But if we don't know how much it is or where it is, we obviously cannot control its use," the official observed.

One year ago it occurred to officials of the arms-control ageocy that the nuclear materials either sent abroad or generated in American-supplied nuclear reactor programs could be turned into atomic weapons, the officials recalled.

The materials had been sent out under the 1954 Atoms for Peace program ioitiat-

The materials had been sent out under the 1954 Atoms for Peace program ioitiated by President Dwight D. Eisenhower. The arms-control agency asked for data from the Energy Research and Development Administration, the successor of the A.E.C., and was told that it had only computer printouts of information from 1968 on readily available on nuclear experts.

Efforts to Get Data Detailed

The energy administration sent its printouts in February. But when the arms-control agency asked for information for the period before 1968, when many of the nuclear traosfers were made, it was told the information was in "handdone ledgers." The energy administration also said it did not have the resources also said it did not have the resources or urge to collate the data, the officials

"We had to nudge them, to badger them," a high-ranking official said.

Finally, in May, an appeal was made to Robert C. Seamans Jr., the chief of the energy administration. Three months later his subordinates sent over photocopies of the ledgers.

"We consider this preliminary data," said an arms-control agency official, "We are still asking for more." He said that since July the agency has been compiling lists of the atomic materials in roughly 20 foreign countries. The officials declined to identify the countries.

An agency official said he considered the acquisition of the data an important contribution to the efforts of the United States to curb the spread of atomic weapoury around the world.

The Energy Research and Development Administration was asked yesterday for comment on the matter, but had not replied by this evening.

BAGHDAD ACCUSES SYRIANS IN EXPLOSION AT AIRPORT

Special to The New York Times

BEIRUT. Lebanoo, Dec. 15 — Iraq accused Syrian authorities today of responsibility for an explosion last night at the Baghdad airport terminal.

A Government statement broadcast by A Government statement broadcast by the Baghdad radio said three persons had been killed and 10 seriously injured. The dead were a Saudi and two Iraqis, the statement said. Among the injured were Iraqis. Syrians, Egyptians, Palestinians and some non-Arab foreigners who had arrived on an Egypt Air flight from Damaseus, the Government statement continued.

According to the statement, explosives and a timing device had been in a suitcase. "The bomb was planted by the Syrian authorities at Damascus airport," the Iraqis charged.

Explosive experts were said to have determined that the suitease had contained up to 17 pounds of TNT.

Arab diplomatic sources here said the Baghdad explosion was evidence of a widening of underground warfare between the rival Baghdad and Damaseus wings of the Arab Socialist Baathist Party, which have been feuding for a decade.

The diplomats recalled that Syrians had earlier accused Iraq of responsibility for terrorist activity in Damaseus, including an attempt on the life of Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam.

BONN, Dec. 15 (AF)—Belmut Schmidt, under fire from his own Social Democratic Party over financing of social security programs, was re-elected Chancellor of West Germany today by two votes.

Ten weeks after the Oct. 3 parliamentary elections cut back the majority of the governing coalition of Social Democrats and Free Democrats, Mr. Schmidt received 250 votes from Parliament, which gave his party one more vote than the required 249.

The 496-seat lower house of Parliament, or Bundestag, cast 243 votes against the Chancellor. One member formally abstained, a ballot was declared invalid and one Social Democrats was prevented from voting by illness.

Since glacier ice flows in a plastic manier, it squeezes in on a hole to an increasng extent at greater and greater depths. In continental ice sheets where Mr. Hanen has drilled east of here in Marie Byrd and and in Greenland the ice remains old and stiff at depths. But here as the rill hole approached the sea beneath the se, the latter was warmed by the nearess of water and flowed more rapidly. The hole, 12 inches in diameter, was losing this morning at an estimated

MISSILES CONTRACT BY NAVY PROTESTED

Award Was Apparently Made in Defiance of a Congressional Proviso for Certification

By JOHN W. FENNEY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15-The Navy re ently awarded an $82.1 million contract to buy an airplane missile in apparent defiance of a Congressional edict that the Secretary of Defense should first certify that the weapon was ready for produc-

The Navy's action, reportedly taken at the direction of Dr. Malcolm R. Curria, director of defense research and engineeriog, is developig into a test case of wheth-

ref the Pentagon or Congressional commit-tees are going to dictate the pace of major weapons programs.

Representative Melvin Price, Democrat. of Illinois, who is chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, last week wrote to Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld protesting the contract award and questioning whether the Defense Department had complied with a law passed fast July.

After several days of high-level staff meetings between Navy and Defense de-partment officials, Alan C. Woods, a Pentagon spokesman acknowledged tonight that the Navy had violated the law in awarding the contract, and he said the Defense Department was moving "to rec-

Mr. Woods explained that the Navy "system that was supposed to have run up a flag that a certification was re-quired didn't work," resulting in what he described as a "technical violation" of the law. He said the Defense Department would "rectify" the violation, probably by sending a certification to Coogress that the missile was ready for pro-

From the chaio of events, it does not appear to Congressional staff members to be a case of an oversight by the Navy. Rather, the contract award is being interpreted in Congressional circles as a delib-erate attempt to bypass a legal restriction imposed by Congress and to assert Pentagon Independence of Congress in the management of weapons programs.

Informally, Navy representatives have explained to staff members of the House explained to staff members of the House

Armed Services Committee that the coo tract was awarded on the basis of a memorandum from Dr. Currie.

Memorandum Is Cited

A Pentagoo spokesman explained that Dr. Currie had not authorized award of the production contract but had only sent a memorandum shortly before pas-sage of the law lifting a previous "hold" he had placed on production of the

It was Mr. Battista, an engineer, who raised questions about the performance of the Sparrow missile and who influenced the House committee to incorporate the legal restriction against its production in the military procurement

The new radar-directed model of the Sparrow missile is a key weapon for the Air Force's F-15 interceptor and the Navy's F-18 fighter. Without the missile, for example, according to military sources, the F-15 would be unable to shoot down the Soviet Union's high-flying MIG-25 interceptor and reconnaiss plane.

Thus, Congressional sources reported, there was considerable pressure from the two services to put the missile into production in a program that is expected to cost $700 million.

Still Has Problems

At the same time, according to these sources, the new Sparrow model, despite nearly a decade of development at a cost of nearly $100 million, is still experiencing technical problems in its testing. It has proved susceptible to radar jamming and has had difficulty firing upward against high-flying targets, such as the MIG-25, or downward against planes flying close to the ground. In addition, the F-15 has run into aerodynamic problems in releasing the missile from a fuse-lage canister.

lems in releasing the missile from a fuse-lage canister.

In a letter on June 29 to Mr. Price, Mr. Rumsfeld acknowledged that the missile was heving technical problems. He said that in tests the missile had been "disappointing in many respects" and that even with proposed technical improvements, it "would leave much to be desired, particularly in its capability against low-flying targets."

At one point, Congressional sources reported that Defense Department representatives tried to contend that Mr. Rumsfeld's letter of June 29 constituted a certification that the missile was ready for production. The Defense Department regan to retreat from that argument began to retreat from that argument when it was pointed out that the letter not only raised questions about the mis-ile but also was written before the law

"It is pretty well known that this not perfect missile," William K. Brehm, ssistant Secretary of Defense for Legis-tive Affairs, said in an interview. "But the collective judgment was that it meets tough of the requirements and we tould proceed with production until we it something better."

SECRETARY OF ARMY WILL ACT ON CADETS

But Hoffmann Does Not Confirm He Intends to Order Reinstatement

of West Point Students

By JAMES FERON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15-Secretary of the Army Martin R. Hoffmann indicated reals on recommendations by a special ommission that cadets involved in the nited States Military Academy's cheating scandal be reinstated as soon as posble.

A 91-page report reseased by the comission confirmed most of the allegations ade by accused cadets and their miliry defense lawyers over the last several inths—that cheating was widespread d that administration of the honor code is often unfair. It said the Academy, West Point, N.Y., was sa much to ime as the cadets for code violations.
Frank Borman, the astronaut and a forr West Point graduate who headed the r West Point graduate who headed the amission, said that "the system has come corrupted over the years." Acding to the report, "a substantial num-r of cadets have been involved in recent ars in dishonesty, toleration [of dis-nesty] and, on occasion, misconduct as nor representatives."

Mr. Hoffmam, appearing with the six-mber panel at a Pentagon news confer-e, would not not confirm that he inded to order immediate reinstatement; he said he agreed with the commissis conclusions making that recom-

The changes would include an option f independent action for a cadet who beeved another cadet violation the pnor code. Now, he must report the alged offender, an act that one panel sember said ran counter to the wide-read distaste for "tattling." Such inde-endent action would be similar to opons currently available at other service Commission members also recommendi that "dismissal from the Academy hould not be the only senction available or a violation." West Points cadets last reek voted by a margin of less than I ercent to retaio the single penalty. A new vote is expected next year.

New York to New Zealand and Australia. (Non-stop from San Francisco to Auckland, a 6,754 mile leg.)

From New York you're only one stop away from Auckland. And you can continue on to Sydney. Returning from Sydney, you're still only one stop away from New York. (Non-stop from Sydney to San Francisco, a 7,400 mile leg.)

New York to Bahrain. (A 6,601 mile leg.)

You can fly non-stop to Bahrain every Monday. And return non-stop every Wednesday. New York to Rio. (A modest 4,787 mile leg.)

Not only do we fly to Rio every day, but on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, we do something no other airline does: fly you there on a 747 SP. On all of our SP flights we provide non-stop in-flight service as well.

In first class you can (and should) make a reservation for a seat at a table in our upper-deck dining room. For lunch and dinner you can choose from 4 entrees in first class and from 3 entrees in economy. There's a choice of movies for both classes (with a nominal charge of $2.50 per headset in economy).

If you don't want to take in a movie, you can take a walk. On our wide-body 747 SPs you won't feel glued to your seat.

You might even find that when it comes to flying long distances, our competition hasn't got a leg to stand on.

United States, says Hal Borland in "A-Place to Begin," with all that the word tity, origins. New England may be America's Sunday self: starchy, still looking for God or an equivalent, a from big cities, it is a characle or costume party, a place where they can escape what Sandor Ferenzci called "Sunday neurosis" by trying to put down "roots" in a flower poit like Greenwich or Westport.

At one time, according to the author, New England was covered with ice up to two miles thick, and some people may feel that the area never fully serve as a sort of spiritual retreat; an austere Garden of Eden Where one is tempted by virtue instead of sin.

Mr. Borland is a noted nature writer

Mr. Boriand is a noted nature writer who came from Colorado a quarter of a century ago, married at New Englander and settled in the Salisbury area, 100 miles north of New York City "It is not Old New England and it is not the hinterlands," For there are traditions here, old houses, old families." He and his wife late Salisbury and, in "A Place to Begin," he bas written a typically New England kind of love letter: appreciation, but not effusive.

In the beginning, the Mr. Boriand describes the trees, vines and shrubs that make up the famous New England autumn palette, which is He goes on to characterize the quali-ties of various woods, almost as Casaexplain bow to build a proper fire.

Adventurous in a Way

The author is rather impatient with the early settlers, who were so chary of putting unfamiliar things in their logous reasons. Yet they were adven-turous in other ways: They were the provide free public schools to offer education to indians and Negroes, to establish a tax-supported library.

A New England farm, observes Mr. Borland, was never more than a hill of beans next to the great farms of the Middle West, and today many of them are mere metaphors, kept up as ecological philanthropies by "gentiemen," or, in a nice itony, as tax shelters against a voracious bureaneracy. ### Two Types of Farms

There are two kinds of farm architecture, the author observes: the separate buildings style and the all-under-one-roof connectedness of the other style. Life in New England seems to offer a parallel: Some residents find all their needs and satisfactions under one roof and others are condemned to separateness and the cold between. Americans first came to New England searching for something they had not fully defined—some ideas associated with freedom, peace and self-determination—and many of us are still searching. Sidewalk World of the Shopping-Bag Women

By FRANCIS X. CLINES

The shopping bag women get even more mysterious in winter, for they don layers of the rags they have been packing all year like heirlooms and turn into fibrous wraiths. The rag swathing spares us their facial expressions. In the mornings now, one woman sits like a pile of small sacks outside the western flank of Macy's, her breath vapor the only sign of life. Another sits across Seventh Avenue outside a bank, making a matched pair in the raggedy sisterhood to be wondered at or ignored as Christmas shoppers, com-muters and garment district workers

There is plenty of room in the city for all sorts of people of silent, sour bearing, but the shopping-bag women are special. They seem to work at fashioning a leprous silhouette. Gene Provost, a social worker, declared: "The dirtier, scroungier, uglier they are, the safer it is for them in the streets," finding urban camouflage in their tatters.

"I just have to wait until things clear one such woman stationed around the corner on 34th Street said in explanation of her ground-level place in life. "It's never enjoyable this way, but the state doesn't want me inside."

This comment seemed illustrative of another tendency social workers have noticed about the shopping-bag women—paranola—except there may have been considerable accuracy in what she said For according to officials at the been considerable accuracy in what she said. For, according to officials at the city's Women's Shelter, the main contributing factor in the growing street phenomenon of the shopping-bag women is the change in state policy five or six years ago, that saw the release of thousands of persons from state mental institutions in the name of humanity institutions in the name of humanity

"The theory was these were margin-al cases best treated in community settings." said Robert H. White, director of the Women's Shelter. "But they wind up in doorways. The ladies here used to have large problems of alcohol-ism. But now that amounts to only about 15 percent, and psychopathology is what we're mainly dealing with."

More and more, city residents have been calling up the shelter about the female derelicts. They do not congregate in Bowery-type haunts or pan-handle greatly like male vagrants, but seem to prefer being motionless bulks on sidewalks, like street kiosks offer-ing admission to a madder world than

Whatever the public concern there are only 47 beds at the snelter, a fo-mer animal hosoital at 350 Lafayette Street, three blocks from the Bowery. And there are hundreds of shoppingbag ryomen stationed nutery about town with their hundles. When one of them is brought to a vae ncy at the shelter, the great mys-tery that gives them their special iden-tity hegins to unfold. While free to leave the shelter when they please, their possessions must be inspected first and locked up during their stay. More rags of clothes, newspapers, food scraps—but rarely anything of common value—are found in the bags. The mystery evaporates, their problems are joited down on bureaucratic forms, and the women lose their special badge as the bundles are stored away.

The personal histories women offer to workers at the center include tales of broken families and vanished motherhood. Battered housewives are a clearly identifiable part of the group, and a more common thread is the loss of some one person who had been the main source of strength in their lives, according to shelter workers,

In terms of city services, women who are down and out are treated differently from male counterparts. The men can obtain chits from the city entitling them to a free meal and a flopbouse bed, and thousands do every night. But for the women, the city has no chit system and only the 47 beds at the shelter, where the average stay is about three

Last year, more than 800 wemen were turned away — about as many as were accepted — and this is without any sort of outreach program to round up female vagrants scattered through

The shelter has medical and some other basic services, but it has no mission or budget for trying to trans-plant residents safely into outside plant residents safely into outside communities. The pervasive fiscal crisis cost the shelter its recreation program. The other day some hesitant caseworker interviews, a hot meal, and the vapid TV programs were the main curiosities of residents at the shelter. Mr. White says he could use volunteers to get some recreation programs going, as well as donations of clothing.

With its bot meals and its plain, neat dormitories doused in disinfectant, the shelter seems a tiny holding opera-

Shelter workers say many of the women return again for another stay, but the shopping-bag women have a special kind of restlessness. They get special kind of restlessness. They get cleaned up, passively accept some services and, after the usual fruitless attempts are made to find and revive burnt out family ties, they retrieve their bundles and go back to the streets.

Goren's Book Offers Readers Challenge of Unusual Hands

♣ QJ88

Thanks to a team of brilliant and energetic writers, the Culbertson or-ganization in the 30's produced an ex-traordinary number of high-quality hridge books and articles. In the last two decades, working at a slower pace but with equal efficiency, the Goren organization has probably exceeded the Culbertson output.

The latest book from this source is "Charles H. Goren's 100 Challenging Bridge Hands for You to Enjoy," pub-Bridge Hands for You to Enjoy," published by Doubleday in hard-cover at $5.95. This is a well-produced work with an interesting typographical idea: The opponents' hands are given in a faint, gray type, allowing the reader who cannot be bothered to use his thumbs or a masking device to concentrate on the declarer's hand and the dummy.

Whether this is superior to a more popular arrangement, in which the problem is given on one page and the full diagram on another, is open to

Entry Problem Explored

All the deals in the book have catchy titles, and the one shown in the diagram is headlined "You Can't Trump Your Partner's Trick at No-Trump." As might be conjectured, it coocerns an entry problem, and there is a most unusual solution.

South reaches three no-trump after a natural auction in which North has made a highly cautious rebid. With 19 high-card points, one would expect a jump to two spades or two no-trump. The contract was normal, but the opening lead was not.

East Wins With Heart Ace

Knowing that the South hand was quite weak, West suspected that the heart suit might be declarer's Achilles heel. However, the declarer's first-bid suit is always likely to contain five cards and leading it is a risky move.
As it turned out, West could have made the routine lead of a low club. giving the declarer an eighth trick, but

♥ Q10942 ♦ 754 ♣ A109 Pass Pass 1 ♠ 3 N.T. N.T. Pass Pass West led the heart seven. East won the first trick with the heart ace, and the defense would have prevailed easily if he had shifted to a club, or even a spade or a diamond. But he supposed that his partner had begun with five hearts, and South fostered that impression by dropping the four under the ace.

West won the second trick with the heart jack, over the nine, and made the final error for the defense by leading the club queen. The reader should now consider why this was fatal. It allows South to make three club tricks, but that makes his trick-total eight and there is no ninth in view.

To make use of his beart suit, South needs two entries to his hand, and be can achieve them by a coup de theatre: He must play the club king from dummy and overtake with his ace.

West's heart king is driven out, and sooner or later the declarer wins a club trick in his hand and scores two heart winners to make his contract. By sacrificing one club trick, South has made two in the heart suit that would otherwise have been inaccessible.

Millstynind Hamper & Row, 520.

We have sawned questions about they have seen civilizations before and we shall savor them again because they are as delicious as they are seemingly hanounderable. And if Peter Tompkins doesn't prove anything conclusively to diefard pragmatists in "Mysteries of the Mexican Pyramids," it is pechaps beingse he did not really seek to prove anything, only make us consider the questions again, this time are a history mystery, the close found in a penophy of respected scientists, mystis, allyenturers. Can it be true that the ancient Meso-Antericans, along with the ancient Meso-Americans, along with the Babylorians, and Egyptians, knew without telescopes that there were two planets between Mercury and the Sun and other planets beyond Pluto, planets astronomers in our own time only suspect are there? Is it possible that these same peoples had calendars more accurate than the Gregorian knew the values of m and Gregorian, knew the values of pi and phi before the Greeks so labeled them, could predict earthquakes by using reflecting pools, accurately measure longitude and latitude and understand a lot of other things that man has since forgotten? And could it be that 50,000 years ago, people living in Peru were attempting heart transplants?

Mr. Tompkins presents the evidence. It isn't exactly new evidence but more resulting the statement of deep that

It isn't exactly new evidence but more a skillful presentation of ideas that have been around for a while. It is a healthy if not overrich mixture of fact, lore, romantic history, supposition and imagination. Although Mr. Tompkins is writing about the Mexican pyramids, line is really presenting us with an exercise in endition, always engrossing in not always successful, in his efforts to give the lay reader a perspective on cosmic. the lay reader a perspective on cosmic knowledge as it existed in ancient times, especially in Meso-America. Victim of Savagery

That isn't easy to do in the case of Mexico. Cortés committed savagery against the civilization he found there and Spain went to elaborate efforts to destroy whatever Cortes may have missed. Mr. Tompkins details the several hundred years of effort it fook to find and piece together the frag-ments of artifacts and information scattered, buried and forgotten.

He relies heavily on work done a few years ago by Hugh Harleston Jr., art American engineer who had lived in Mexico for a quarter of a century and who had become-obsessed with the n enigma, that are the pyramids at Teotihuacan, near what is now Mexico. City. Mr. Harleston did dimensional analyses—his original drawings are or presented there in detail—and he continued these wars presented to the continued cluded there were proportions at Teoti-huacan that were common to the Pyramid of Cheops and the Tower of Babel. He was not the first to make such observations; but he got people to thinking about their again.

But what did the pyramids and their dimensions: many first some, it was evidence that mess andericans had been visited by ships from the Middle East. For Mr. Harleston, it was evidence that ancient peoples in disperate parts of their universe had what amounted to an intuitive cosmic intelligence. According to Mr. Tompkins, Mr. Harleston continued to an intuitive cosmic intelligence. According to Mr. Tompkins, Mr. Harleston continued to an intuitive cosmic intelligence. But Mr. Barleston's also paraphrased as saving that Merico's Julian Carillo, who used a 13 time scale, produced musical proportions that were "the closest approximations to the relation-ships of the measurements at the area of the Teotihuacan monuments."

The logic implicit in language would suggest Mr. Harleston is, thus, saying there is a basic sonic relationship between Carillo and Strauss, although Mr. Tompkins doesn't say so. If he does, I must confess I cennot hear # does, I must confess I cannot hear and if he doesn't, I must say I do not understand what he is talking about, perhaps because Mr. Tompkins doesn't explain it thoroughly.

No block like this would be complete if it did not contain somebody's prediction as to when the world will come to an end. Mr. Tompkins doesn't disappoint us, wancient Maya prophecies, using astrology, astronomy and mathematics, say that catastrophic earthquakes will destroy the world on Dec. 24, 2011, like the book, just in fine for Christmas.

Reforming West Point

The cheating scandal that led to the expulsion of 139 cadets from the United States Military Academy has from its very start told more about West Point's deficiencies as an academic institution than about alleged flaws in the character of the cadets. By rigidly standing behind an honor code that seemed blind to human behavior, the traditionalists, including many of the cadets, have demonstrated an unfortunate lack of understanding of pedagogy, justice and honor itself.

A select commission headed by Frank Borman, the former astronaut, has courageously dispelled the fog of military mumbojumbo and the concomitant theory that ability to act as infallible automatons is a preregulsite of military leadership. The Borman panel wisely asks for speedy readmission of the expelled cadets to

The commission does not deny that the cadets did cheat when they discussed the questions of a "takehome" engineering test in the barracks. But the panel rightly concludes that the "gross inadequacies in the honor system" and the overload of academic and military assignments bear much of the blame for behavior that certainly calls for punishment but not for expulsion. At the heart of West Point's problem is the fact that expulsion is the only possible penalty for any violation of an honor code that says "cadets will not lie, cheat or steal nor tolerate those who do." Earlier this month, a proposal to give the honor board broader discretion to let the penalty fit the transgression fell 25 votes short of the two-thirds majority required for such a change.

Tha commission, bowever, quite properly rejects the cadets' vote by flatly saying that "no one owns the honor code." It calls for a range of "appropriate penalties" based on the facts in any specific violation; but it also urges far-reaching reforms in the way West Point is currently run.

The Borman commission has placed in sharp focus the necessity, first, to correct the injustice done to cadets who fell victim to a flawed system and then to move quickly to reform the system. It provides exemplary guidelines for long-overdue change. It is now up to the Army to follow up with equal open-mindedness and speed to give education and bonor a better chance

Keeping in Touch

Since President Jefferson's day, when he set standards of simplicity that no modern President could hope to equal, the trappings of power that separate the nation's First Citizen from his fellow citizens have grown steadily more forbidding. The guard boxes, locked gates, special passes, and other security measures that began with World War II have increasingly tended to seal off the White House grounds from the rest of the world.

Having been elected as a populist, Mr. Carter is naturally perplexed as to how he can restore easier access and a more informal atmosphere to belp him keep in touch with ordinary people. No President today can mingle easily with his fellow citizens.

But if be avails himself of them, three valuable channels to the public exist and can be kept open. First, he can invite persons from every region, profession and background to meet with him singly and in small groups for face-to-face discussions. Presidents have traditionally made use of such meetings, Mr. Nixon being an exception in the degree to which be isolated himself for

The President can hold frequent news conferences, even more often than the once-a-month schedule Mr. Carter tentatively envisages. It would re-establish a useful old practice if he made them genuinely open-ended as they were in the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt rather than keeping them to an artificial half-hour limit, established presumably to meet the scheduling needs of commercial

No one would contend that the Washington press corps is a perfect mirror of public opinion, but if reporters from news organizations large and small are permitted untrammeled and frequent news conferences, a President can have a rough but reliable guide to what is on the public's mind.

Finally, Mr. Carter can regularly read a random sample of his mail. Citizens write to their President to unburden themselves of many opinions and complaints. If he is a faithful reader of his own mail, a President can keep in touch with the people who chose him as their

Isolation is a relative matter. It is also a matter of temperament. Some Presidents are more gregarious than others. But the barriers that seal a President off from the people are not the ropes and wooden-horses erected by the security-obsessed Secret Service. They are the invisible barriers in his own mind and the barriars of access erected by the staff that schedules his visitors and apportions his time. Those latter barriers are within a President's power to control if he has the will to do so.

Albany's One-Man Rule

As the New York State Legislature organizes for its new session next month, it could learn a lesson from the way the national House of Representatives has opened up its own organizing process.

In Washington, the party caucus has played an increasingly vital role in determining the leadership and rules of the Congress. In Albany, unfortunately, it is still the other way around: The leadership-namely, Speaker Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn-dominates the caucus.

Unless the caucus begins to exercise its inherent prerogatives, the successor to the retiring majority leader. Albert H. Blumenthal, will be named arbitrarily by Mr. Steingut, who also is empowered under existing rules to name committee chairmen and to parcel out legislative aides and other prerequisites according to his own whims and political interest

Such one-man rule-which also prevails to an even more extrema degree in the Republican-dominated State Senate-is no way to run a democratic legislature which affects the lives of all the state's citizens. It is time the majority caucuses in both houses in Albany asserted

At least three candidats are running for the important Assembly majority leadership, all able men: Stanley Fink of Brooklyn, Irwin J. Landes of Great Neck and Thomas Frey of Rochester. It is quite likely that the Speaker's anticipated preference, Mr. Fink, might also be the choice of a free caucus vote. There are persuasive arguments, bowever, for giving the No. 2 leadership spot to someone from outside the city and outside the Brooklyn

To be most effective in the critical debates that lie ahead, the Assembly leadership needs someone who can relate to the growing numbers of suburban and upstate Democratic lawmakers and who can bridge the gap that exists between the current Speaker and progressive elements of the party, as Mr. Blumenthal was able to do in the past.

The choice, in any event, should be made by the caucus as a whole and not by order of one man.

Britain's Labor in a Box

The speech delivered in the House of Commons yesterday by Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey, announcing spending cuts and higher taxes, does not look like the decisive event in the struggle to stem Britain's economic declina. On the contrary, financial markets at home and abroad received the speech with skepticism; the British stock market fell and the pound plunged still further.

What troubles the markets-and, even more important, British public opinion—is doubt whether the Labor Government has the will and tha political strength to do the job. Far from rallying the nation to a "Dunkirk spirit," Mr. Healey and Prime Minister Callaghan seem to be making their moves mainly in response to the pressures of the International Monetary Fund as the required condition for getting an urgently needed $3.9 billion loan.

The LM.F. had originally told the British Government it would have to cut the budget by $4.8 billion to get the loan; Mr. Healey has trimmed this to $4.2 billion, of which $1.7 billion is to be cut in the fiscal year starting next April 1 and $2.5 hillion the following year. The tax increases are on liquor and tobacco, but the Government considerately put these off until after

The Bank of England intends to slow the rate of growth of the money supply to 10 percent in the coming year, and believes this will gradually bring down the present rate of Inflation. Yet it expects inflation to continue at about a 15 percent rate for several months longer, as higher costs of imports, resulting from the recent fall of the pound, are passed through to con-

2 V

The Callaghan Government faces threats to its existence from both tha left and the right. The Conservatives, led by Margaret Thatcher, may try to overthrow Labor on the issue of "devolution"-greater self-government for Scotland and Wales. Tha threat could not come at a worse moment, in the midst of Britain'a economic crisis.

At the same time, the left wing now controls the national executive committee of the Labor Party, and is challenging Mr. Callaghan's and Mr. Healey'a entire economic policy of "austerity." In his new budget, Mr. Healey was clearly trying to avoid losing not the left wing but the "moderates," resistant to slashes in housing, education and social services. Mr. Healey had to be wary of destroying the "social compact," on which his party's "incomes policy" of voluntary wage restraint by the trade unions depends.

Thus, Labor is in a box from which it will be hard to escape. Its best hope is that the pound will hold at about its present level, and that the worst impact of the austerity program on the British economy will be over by the second half of next year. By then inflation may be slowing and unemployment beginning to

Prime Minister Callaghan's capacity for leadership will be at stake during the hard times that lie ahead. The package Chancellor Healey has put together appears acceptable to the majority of his own party, and the left wing will be loath to precipitate a general election that could, and probably would, hand the Government over to the Tories.

It will take nerve-and luck-for Labor to check the decline, but it is by no means impossible if Mr. Callaghan can only raise the confidence and support not only of his own party but of a beleaguered nation. . .

Housing: Toward 'Adult Erector Sets'

To the Editor:

A bigb priority of the incoming Administration must be to stimulate real answers to the problem of building housing at less cost. Millions of citizens dismally ill-housed are e continuing anachronism in e nation of vast resources, great ingenuity and humanitarian ideals. And this exists while unemployment in the housing portion of the building trades may be over 30 percent and is a principal barrier to full recovery of the economy. In this situation, present means and financial expedients are inadequate: Since 1950 construction costs have risen one-third faster than living costs and are too high for most persons. And the nation can ill afford to add massive, billion-dollar subsidies to the already huge national debt.

The most fundamental need is to lower construction costs through a bigher degree of industrialization of the building process, to find ways to build that recognize current labor and materials costs, distribution patterns and technological potential. Faster design and assembly would result in less need for expensive construction money, and buildings would sooner become in-come-producing. Just as the automobile and clothing industries could not meet a mass need without mass production, neither can the building industry.

Those who may be apprehensive as to the quality of the industrialized product might consider other industries. Production-line automobiles can be handsome, and mass-produced suits and shees can match most products of custom tailors and cobblers. Similarly, although one can admire the best of individually designed buildings, much building today is ill-designed and bailly built, while the industrialized product can be visually and otherwise excel-

Pregnancy and the Family To the Editor:

The Supreme Court's ruling allowing employers to refuse payment of preg-nancy disability benefits for women has shocked me. This issue should not lie within Title VII at all, for it's narrow and sectarian to view pregnancy only in the context of women's rights. Pregnancy is the beginning of family life, and as such the benefits should not be contracted but extended to include paternal as well as : maternal benefits and leave.

Such a plan is in operation in Sweden, where up to seven months of paid leave is available to parents to care for and become acquainted with their infant children. The Other Noteholders To the Editor.

Since the moratorium was declared unconstitutional, there has been talk of fully paying off the city noteholders. How about those notebolders who exchanged for the M.A.C. bonds? # 'If Highways Were Designed for People'

To the Editor:

Highways should be designed for phasize regional differences. people, not for the automobile. It is the machine-thinking of some engineer which leads to "insensitivity to the contours or to the nature of the land through which [highways] pass," as so aptly pointed out in your Nov. 30 editorial "Double-Tracked Scars."

Where interstate and other highways have been successful, they do : reveal the landscape through which they pass. The Taconic State Parkway is an excellent example. We, as users, become more aware of the landscape as we are manipulated through it. In a sense, it is the technique of putting a painting in a frame to focus attention on it. Except in this case we are in the frame (controlled) and look outward. This can be achieved only through sensitive and careful planning. The editorial also makes a plea for planting trees and shrubs; too little sensitivity is given to plant composition along these highways. In the rural portion, all replanting should respect and complement the native vegetation, not only in a regional sense but in respect to variations on a smaller scale, which are determined by soil types, exposure, moisture, etc. In this way, not only do we reduce the impact of the existing highway to the greatest degree, but we also focus attention on the content of the native landscape and retain and em-

other places.

Most parkways are more closely identified with suburban and urban landscapes than with open country. They are more park-like and appropriately include trees and shrubs of non-native origin. In most cases, they are completely man-made landscapes, and the need for separation from surrounding landscapes is more intense than in open country.

The proper definition of "garden" is "outdoor space organized for man's use, comfort and pleasure." Roadways are garden spaces because they represent landscape which has been changed by man. If highways were designed for the "use, comfort and pleasure" of people, instead of aoto-mobiles, we would be far better off. # Pee Wee's Wreath

By Ishmael Reed

I used to kid him about being a "capitalist," and he used to kid back. That was before I found out that an independent black businessman or worker threatens the status quo more than those who spend a lot of time saying that they do. That's all. Saying it. That's why Pee Wee had to struggle to stay in business. He had to fight white ethnics, those inhabitants of the little Miserables all over the country, who are often as desperate and poor as the blacks they're pitted against. Pitted against each other by the New Feudalists, who spend their time on the loveliest beaches studying tax loopholes and taking pills.

Soft-Nosed Businessmen

By William Safire

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 -- Meeting Bert Lance, who is to be the Carter Administration's chief budget officer, for the first time last week, I narrowly resisted the impulse to reach out and squeeze his nose.

The reason for this odd urge is that Mr. Lance has been invariably described-by reporters, profilists, editorialists and pundits as a "hardnosed banker."

In an earlier day, bankers were known as "fishy-eyed," a term intended to be pejorative. Now, however, fishyeyedness has become popular, which has spawned "hard-nosed" as the required adjective for Democrats anxious to assure texpayers they are not about to be sloppily compassionate.

Why do Democratic politicians now want to appear "hard-nosed" and why do we all play along with their desire? The reason is that liberals think that most businessmen are conservatives, and politicians believe that the way to a businessman'e heart is to make self-reliant poises, touch all the zerobases of efficiency, and squirt nose hardener into their nostrils.

. Wrong, wrong, wrong. The big businessman who thrives oo competition, who actually lives with the work ethic is a myth. He no longer exists. Some small businessmen have those crusty qualities, and oow and then a hig-business manager shows certain entrepreneurial tendencies, but these are regarded as throwbacks. In today's top corporate echelons, to be really hard-nosed is to be hopelessly oldfashioned.

Consider price controls. Jimmy Carter has publicly eschewed them, thinking thereby to win the affection of "the business community." But he is at least a generation out of phase. Most managers up in their eerie eyries do not despise controls; they like con-trols. It is the labor leaders who despise controls.

Which is natural, All too many top business managers are hooked on stahility, certainty, order, long-range plans; controls, to them, mean playing by the rules, settling for a predictable profit margin, minimizing risk. Top labor leaders know that controls meens wage controls, an end to collective bargaining, and an end to the need for labor unions.

Eschew that over, Mr. Carter. One of my major sins in life was to write the Aug. 15, 1971, Presidential address freezing wages and prices. When Mr. Nixon worried privately about it being a doublecross of bis business supporters, John Connally assured him-quite rightly, as it turned out-that "big" husinessmen were fairly panting for the security blanket of cootrols. George

Shultz, who hated the suspension of

ecocomic freedom, went along only because he was certain America's free labor movement would bust any control system before it became perma-

The myth of top-management hardnosiness can also be observed in the way some businessmen seek to eliminate competition in the aircraft industry.

Eastern Airlines president Frank Borman, a hard-noseconed former astronaut, is a scrappy, likable, go-getting executive who probably considers himself an economic conservative, But he has put forth some wistful wondering if it would not be more efficient for airlines to buy our next generation of commercial aircraft from a "single source" rather than have the present three manufacturers make big investments in prototypes and then compete for sales.

Colonel Borman's intent is to lower the cost of the aircraft, which is laudable, but his method is the Big Government "Apollo project" way—the negotiated hid with the single supplier—and that monopoly philosophy is pernicious.

ESSAY

Some airline executives are tired of the "old" Boeing 727 or the Lockheed C-130, which are relatively cheap now because their development costs have long ago been recovered. They wish they could have a more perfect plane, suited exactly to their needs, and are uncomfortable with the economic discipline of having to accept yesterday's

How easy it would be, they think, to have a single source, a Governmentprotected monopoly, to buy the new-est planes at whatever cost, which would theo be passed on to the consumer. Easy, but anticompetitive. No sweat for the executive; more control for the bureaucrat; ultimately higher cost for the air traveler.

The secret desire of so many toplevel managers for controls and regulated monopoly is never openly stated; on the contrary, the rhetoric is always for "stopping the wage-push by monopolistic unions" or "helping us to boy more efficiently so we can com-pete better." But today's managerial trend is not toward accepting risk. It is toward getting Government help to avoid risk, thus becoming socially responsible, or "soft-nessi."

The irony is that liberal politicians still think that businessmen think that hardnosiness is oext to goddiness, and so the pols pretend to be tough-minded when the managers have long ago become tender-hearted. It is as if we have reached some universal halftime, and Big Government and Big Business are now marching toward each other's

WASHINGTON - On Nov. IS, five American Jews mer with two leaders of the Palestine Liberation Organization here, through the American Friends Service Committee.

The five Jews were Herman Edelsberg, former director of the B'nai B'rith International Council; David Gorin, regional director of the American Jewish Congress in Washington; Olya Margolin, staff of the National Council of Jewish Women; Rabbi Max Ticktin, national director, department of field services and leadership training, B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, and vice chairman of Breira; and L Each of us attended as a private person, not as a representative of any organi-

The Palestinians -were Sabri Jiryis, a graduate of Hebrew University, author of "The Arabs in Israel," and the P.L.O.'s leading expert on Israel and Zionism, and Dr. Isam Sartawi, one of the high commanders of Al Fatah and a close aide of Yasir Arafat. They said they represented the P.L.O.

They or their close associates had met previously with leading Israeli doves and in New York with American-Jewish leaders.

The Palestinians began the conversation by stating that the P.L.O. is prepared to accept existence of "two sovereign states on the territory of Palestine—a Palestinian state and a

I thought to myself: The formulas "Jewish state" and "sovereign state" have never before been used by the P.L.O. in private or public. Some private conversations have referred to accepting "a de-Zionized Israel" or even just "Israel," but it is new to suggest accepting that Israel is, and will be, chiefly Jewish in outlook and conoections throughout the world. As for "sovereign state," that suggests the P.L.O. would abandon its claim that Israel is not a legitimate state in international law.

The P.L.O. spokesmen asserted that their statement was official P.L.O. policy. Yet they also made clear that there is still too much internal opposition for the PLO. at this stage to lay out as its formal official position the formula they presented in private. They added that there will be official public statements about the acceptability of a two-state settlement that are far clearer than any hitherto.

I thought to myself: Since the statements are unofficial, do they matter? As the private statements of PLO. doves have become more conciliatory, the official ones do, too-but on a slower track. And Farouk Kaddoumi's official P.L.O. statements at the United Nations this fail have caught up with the private ones of a year ago - close tinion state and Israel.

to explicitly accepting a settlement based on a West Bank-Gaza Palestin-ian state. So it matters: This is an advance signal, But then I thought to myself: Is all this a propaganda ploy? Maybe. But it is hard for a government or political leadership to carry out such a ploy unless there is a lot of political support within its ranks for the "propa-ganda" political position. If there is no such support, its constituents would be outraged by the propaganda statements and would topple the leaders who said them. So even if the P.L.O. is seeking gains from propaganda, many of its home folks must now want a peace of Palestine-alongside-Israel. Yes, there are still divisionsbut that could give Israel a chance to strengthen the Palestinian doves.

Some of the Jews present raised questions about the furious attacks on Zionism just published by the Baghdad Conference. One of the P.L.O. people immediately said, "We—the PLO. as a whole and the PLO.'s experts on Zionism in particular—were not in-vited to Baghdad. What is more, if we had been we would not have gone. That conference was not held in our behalf. It was part of Iraq's competition with Libya."

But some of the Jews present pressed him further about Palestinian attacks on Zionism. Then he raised his voice to say: "Yes, the U.N. resolution against Zionism was our reso-lution. We are against Zionism. We believe Zionism is our enemy. But you make peace only with your enemy, not with your friend."

And he paused, looked around the room, and with great intensity said again, "We are ready to make peace with our enemy." I thought to myself: But since they are enemies, what could Israel do without risking its survival? Israel could, make a clear public offer that it is willing to conclude a peace treaty. including guarantees of Israeli secu-rity, with an independent Palestinian state on the West Bank and Gaza, and is ready to begin negotiations for such a peace treaty with the P.L.O. Such a statement would strengthen Palestinjan doves like Mr. Jiryls and Mr. Sartawi. It would force the P.L.O. as a whole to choose: Accept a decent peace or lose the sympathy it has won in much of the world, I thought to myself: Israel too could. say, "We are ready to make peace" with our worst enemy." Then we would see Picture Galloway, a quaint village on the Scottish seaside. An artists' colony, with a decent pub, a Presbyterian church, a respectable golf club. Nothing much ever happens.

Until an artist named Campbell is murdered. Not that the blackguard hadn't been asking for it. But still, one doesn't expect that sort of solution to quarrels among artists.

Fortunately, Lord Peter Wimsey, the urbane sleuth created by Dorothy L. Sayers, is on holiday in Galloway at the time, along with his butter, Bunter. His lordship had gone for the fishing. The two soon find themselves helping the local constabulary unravel the complex clues surrounding Campbell's untimely demise and-most important-to determine who done it.

There are six suspects. So; to net the fish they're after, Wimsey and Bunter must eliminate five "red herrings." Which is a way to catch the guilty party and create a title at the same time.

How do the gentleman and the gentleman's gentleman collar the culprit?

By WAYNE KING

Special to The New York Times

ATLANTA, Dec. 15—Alfred E. Smith would have said, "The wolor has toined." Jimmy Carter, who should know, would say, "The wuhm has tuhned."

Any way you say it, the point is more or less the same. Now that Jimmy Carter is President-elect, peanuts are the oational dish and Plains, Ga., is capital of the world, it is no longer Southerners who talk funny.

Or, at least, the Southerners are no longer sitting quietly hy, blowing up inner tubes, banging around the bus station and transmitting rickets to other members of the family while Northerners make fun of the way they handle the King's English. It is the Southerners' turn to point out that Yankees are the ones who speak halt-ingly in their native tongue.

After many months of enduring articles in national publications purporting to explain the Southern idlom, The Atlanta Constitution this week struck back. Embla-zoned across the front page of its weekend edition was a long article called "Reverse English on the Sidewalks of New York." It resulted, said the staff writer, Dick

Green, from the most recent piece in a national newspaper representing Southerners as saying things more or less like, "Hit's man bid-ness the way I talk." "We got such a violent reaction to that.

Mr. Green's first eocounter in New York was, of course, a New York taxi driver, Charlie Kerner, Mr. Kerner said: "S'like the old joke, y'know, th' cartoon. Shows ya Cottuh staoding and saying, 'Well,' he says, 'it's about time we had somebody in the White House that doesn't talk wit' an accent.' Ya-know-wadda-meen?"

Shut my mouf. Or his'n. Down at Macy's, Mr. Green encountered one Bernadette Bacon, who, he said, "Steers n steady stream of customers heeah. they-uh, everwhe-ah. Fu'th flo-a, seventh flo-a, da cell-ah."

But the linguistic coup de grace was administered by Marshal D. Berger, a professor in the department of speech at City College. A New Yorker. According to Dr. Berger, as reported by The Constitution, what we think of as a picked up speech habits from Southern planters, they corrupted those patrician southern tones into the language of the lower classes. Wretched. "It's a startling suggestion, isn't it?" said

Dr. Berger. His hypothesis-and he emphasized that it is no more than that, "not even a theory, really,"-Is that the aristocratic planter classes of Mobile, New Orleans and to a less apparent degree. Charleston, passed on certain proounciations and speech patterns to entrepreneurs in New York. The hypothesis is strengthened by evidence of a strong mercantile relationship between New York and the Southern planters before tha Civli War, Dr. Berger said. His example is the expression, 'The worm has turned."

The patrician planter pronounced that something like. "The whum has tuhoed," which gradually became "the whuim has tuined" and finally: "do woim has toined." From there, it is but a diphthong distance to "to:dy-toid and toid ay-nuh" in the heart of Flatbush.

In the article on New York speech pat-terns, The Constitution helpfully provided readers with a glossary. On the grounds that it may be helpful to hear ourselves as others hear us, some excerpts are as

Dr. Donald H. Menzel of Harvard, | JULIAN MILLER DIES, Authority on the Sun and Its Corona

By EDWARD HUDSON Dr. Donald H. Menzel, former director of the Harvard College Observatory and one of the world's leading authorities on the sun and its corona, died Tuesday at Massachusetts General Hospital after a long illness. He was 75 years old and lived in Cambridge.

Dr. Menzel, who had spent nearly 40 years teaching at Harvard, was the anthor of 26 books, ranging from technical works to popular volumes debunking U.F.O.'s. He led a number of expeditions to distant corners of the globe to view total solar eclipses.

Because of illners, he had to remain behind for the last expedition he organized, to view the total eclipse in Australia on October 23, 1976. However, he remained in communication with the expedition's leaders from his hospital bed in Cambridge.

Recently, the Minor Planet Center of the International Astronomical Union oamed an asteroid for him in recognition of his contribution to astrophysics.

According to Harvard University, Dr.

Menzel developed the first coronograph in the United States in 1938. With the instrument, scientists could study the corona—the glowing "halo" that comes into view when the sun's face is hidden turing an eclipne—even when there was

Caso Vows Fight for Renomination As the Nassau County Executive

By FRANK LYNN Special to The New York Times

MINEOLA, L.I., Dec. 15—Brushing off suggestions by Republican leaders that be atep aside and accept e judgeship, Nassau County Executive Ralph G. Caso reiterated today his infention to fight for renomination next year against two G.O.P. challeogers and over the opposition of the Nassau County Republican chairman, Joseph M. Margiotta.

"I have to hold my head high as eman," the 59-year-old County Executive declared as he and bis wife fought back tears at a dramatic news conference at his news office here.

Mr. Caso, who is completing his second term and who was the unsuccessful Republican candidate for Lieutantant Governor in 1974, has been pushed aside by party leaders in Nassao and faces a three-way primary fight for renomination egainst two formidable vote-getters—the Hempstead Town Presiding Supervisor, Francis T. Purcell, who is the secondranking Republican official in the county, and State Senator Jobo R. Dunne of Garden City, who played a prominent role to the Attica prison-revolt oegotiations and the enactment of the no-fault auto-insurance law.

The struggle for the County Executive commation is likely to have a profound impact on the Nassau County government and the Nassau G.O.P. orgaoization, which is considered the strongest political organizatioo in the state.

The divisions and bitterness of the political struggle could well spill over into the county government, since Mr. Caso'e Deputy County Executive, Thomas DeVivo, is one of Mr. Margiotta'a closest associates, while 12 of Mr. Caso's 30 county commissioners are members of the Republican Party executive committee, which is almost certain to follow Mr. Margiotta'a lead and support Mr. Purcell.
The divisions in the G.O.P. are also encouraging Democrats to hope that they can recapture the County Executive post with its vast patronage and cootrects which Mr. Caso won back for the G.O.P. in 1970. His predecessor in the post, which is equivalent to mayor of a city.

His first choice, Mr. Purcell, initially refused, announcing publicly that he would not even seek re-election as Supervisor because ha was wary of public lifa and its problems. Mr. Margiotta then "eocouraged" Mr. Dunne to seek support among party leaders last spring.

Taking what he thought was e cue.

Mr. Dunne prepared a full-scale campaign but was taken aback hy Mr. Margiotta'a sudden and renewed intarest in Mr. Caso after the November Presidential election. Mr. Caso said today that Mr. Margiotta had called him after the election—which Mr. Caso described as a "diaaster" in Nas-

"He felt we had to work togather; to do otherwise would be divisive and destructive of the Republiceo Party in Nassau County." Mr. Caso told the crowded but unusually eilent news conference in his fourth-floor office. He said that Mr. Margiotta was to escort him "arm and arm" to a series of fence-mending sessions with Republican county committee-

After the first such session, Mr. Dunne, ensing a change in the script as he understood it, Jumped into the fray and an-nounced he wes "considering" a race for County Executive, Mr. Margiotta reacted by declaring his neutrality and putting new pressure on Mr. Purcell to run. "While he was professing neutrality, he was inducing" Mr. Purcell to run, Mr. Caso said. The other principals agreed eventually with that version.

While pledging to carry his fight into the primary, Mr. Caso retreated on his earlier vow to run an independent candidacy even in the general election even if he did not win the Republican nomination.

Mr. Margiotta had confidently predicted in conversarions with party leaders in the last week that Mr. Caso would step

Stay of Eviction Asked

A Civil Court judge heard arguments on a request for a tour-month stay of the eviction of Michael Werboff, the So-year-old portrait artist who has been living for $239 a mooth in the cooperative apariment owned by Don-Hillman, lawyer, in the elegant Hotel des Artistes, at I West 67th Street. Mr. Werboff's attorney asked for the stay on the ground that "we've got to get over the winter mooths—we've got to get time to get our poseessions together."

Lawyers for Mr. Hillman, who says he hes been losing more than $600 a month in maintenance and carrying charges on the apartment while challenges to the eviction make their way through the courts, said the court lacked jurisdiction to grant the stay and stated that it would be unfeir to Mr. Hillman, his wife, Adria, and 6month-old son, Jethro, to further pro-long their wait to move into the three-hedroom apartment, which Mr. Hill-man purchased for $40,000 in 1972, while Mr. Werboff was e tenant. No Gimmick' Budget

The Rockland County Legislature has adopted a $122 million budget that will produce no tax increase for county residents on Tuesday night. "This was no gimmick," said the Budget and Finance Committee chairman, John Grant, after the 1977 outlay was adopted by a 16-2 margin. "We've been working for over a year to cut our employment rolls and eave money." An increase of 7 percent in expenditures next year will he met by an equal increase in revenues, according to Mr. Grant. The county has cut 50 jobs out of the budget over the last year.

Federal Threat Blocked

A Federal threat to penalize states with more than 3 percent ineligibility—which proposed to withhold $123.4 million in welfare reimbursements for 45 states last October, including $31.9 million for New York State—has been blocked by Federal Court action.

Judge June L. Green, in the District of Columbia, ruled last May 14 that the proposed tolerance level was "arbitrary capricious" and "abuse of discretion" But her decision said penalties could be levied for excessive errors, and that the matter was a part of Federal-state discussions.

H.E.W. data yesterday estimated that 35,100 families on welfare rolls had been ineligible in New York State during the first half of this year.

They had received a total of $49,977,000 in cash aid.

is subtle and yet fundamental in terms of whether you see a place as static and declining or gathering its strength and going forward. "People have now stopped asking, "Can we do things? and have started asking, "When?"

"Its record on physical output has been very impressive," said Mitchell Sviridoff, vice president in charge of national affairs at the Ford Foundation, the corporation's major source of private support. "And it has clearly demonstrated that the place to achieve demonstrated that the place to achieve effective coordination is not at the start of the pipeline, but at the end of it—in

Treal estate development and property management. Thus far, Restoration manages 1,400 new and rehabilitated housing units. The income from the rent has covered operating expenses.

Perhaps Restoration's most significant development experience was in helping International Business Machines identify a suitable site for a new $11 million plant, a move with benefits that far exceed the $40,000 fee Restoration earned.

Meanwhile, the corporation itself, which employs 250 people, is simultaneously undergoing major changes of

And Mr. Thomas, the corporation's $60,000-a-year 42-year-old president, is about to leave to open his own law

Mr. Thomas, who was born and raised Mr. Thomas, who was born and raised in Bedford-Stuyvesant, served both as an assistant U.S. attorney and later as a deputy police commissioner and is widely regarded as Restoration's "glue," in Judge Williams's words.

the 10 years he has been there, Mr. Thomas's effectiveness has been partly the result of his ability to stay out of local partisan politics.

That, and an ability to use his low-keyed style to mask his toughness, has allowed him to "sit down at the table with the captains of industry, use their resources and not be swallowed up in the process," as another hoard member

Mr. Thomas was offered the post of Secretary of the Department of Hous-ing and Urban Development this week, but declined.

While he would not comment on the offer by President-elect Jimmy Carter, which was made in Atlanta, Mr. Thomas said that he had talked with Mr. Carter "on a range of domestic issues" and that he planned to make himself available to the Administration to work on some of them.

Mr. Thomas, a tall, well-built former Columbia University basketbali player whose speech is a blend of rich lawyer-like polysyllables and hlack urbanisms, said in his letter of resignation:

"It is . . . important that the great achievement Restoration represents be understood to be not the work of any one individual, but rather something basic to our approach and structure."

"I wouldn't contemplate leaving if there were major hurdles," he said in his office on the top floor of the Shef-field huilding—an old abandoned milk-bottilng plant at Fulton and Nostrand Avenues that Restoration turned into an attractive headquarters.

Judge Williams said that the Corporation was accepting Mr. Thomas's resignation "with regret," but added: "We have reached one milestona and one goal, and if he must leave, this is a good tima to do it."

The lessons of history must now be applied, as they see it, to the worsening conditions in Redford-Stuyvesant, a community with one of the greatest mixes of residential properties in the Unemployment is estimated at more than 15 percent. The number of busis that have left the area between 1969 and 1974—a slump from 5,380 to 4,045, according to Restorations' research department—represents a loss of some 6,000 jobs.

The number of vacant residential properties is now 2,000, and the farther away from Restoration's core area of development—the commercial complex at Fulton and Nostrand Avenues—the more blocks there are that are filled with pock-marked, ill-fated brown-stones that neither Restoration nor stones that neuther Restoration nor anyone else has gotten to.

Along Willoughby Avenue, for example, is Restoration's largest new effort—St. Joseph's housing development—a $13 million, 267-unit development with interior courtyards and a mix of low, moderate and high rise apartments. It is scheduled to open arly next year.

But they stand in striking contrast to the dense rows of high-rise public housing and the vast empty lots collecting garbage.

"We obviously can't do everything." said James Shipp, president of RDC, the corporation's development arm. "But we're hoping that our efforts will cause private investors to see it as a good area to invest money in—in prownstones and commercial facilities."

A 'Partnership' Project
The history of Restoration dates back to the urban riots that drove businesses out of the area and hastened an aiready established pattern of abandonment and other deterioration.

The basic purpose was to create jobs y "grasping the web whole," as Mr. aomas recalled Mr. Kennedy's phrase, and by involving the "active participa-tion of the business community in every aspect of the program, in a partnership of shared costs and efforts with

The internal controversy over the dual leadership and the external criti-cism and suspicion over the white presence has now died down to an inaudible whisper, the white presence diminished and the critics have either joined forces as board members or stayed on as consumers. "There're no critics now," said Lucille of Employment, and a founding board member, who was initially caught up in a struggle over procedures regarding the composition of the board. "Just like everything else, that was a matter of politics. People just didn't know what it was going to be. Now, Restoration's one of the reasons I still live in Bedford-Striyvesant." The need for technical assistance from the white side has diminished as the staff has learned from numerous joint-venture experiences.

"They were smart people," Mr. Thomas said, referring to the team of young people he assembled initially, "They just didn't have a lot of exper-

In large doses initially, the expertise was provided by, among others, Benno Schmidt, a managing partner of J. H. Whitney, the the venture capital firm, Thomas J. Watson, Jr., chairman of the Board of LBM; Douglas Dillon, former Secretary of the Treasury, and André Meyer of Lazard Frères & Co., the investment bankers.

New Attitudes Forged

It is partly the experience with Government funding that has forged the corporation's new attitude about its need to develop a larger, independent financial base.

"By the time the organization had

"By the time the organization had actually built up a capacity to spend money wisely." Mr. Thomas said, "we had a substantial reduction in the available Federal dollars to be spent."

Coincidentally, the Ford Foundation began to reduce its support, partly because of the impact of a generally declining economy, and partly because its policy, according to Mr. Sviridoff, is to finance demonstrations, not permanent programs. manent programs. Of the Federal support, Mr. Thomas said:

"You would think it would make sense after I0 years for them to say, "Yon've done X and we like what's happened, so let's see what will happen if you did 5X.' And maybe we'd really find out nothing about the whole notion of how to arrest decay and restore a healthy environment."

a healthy environment.

"Instead, they're shifting saying,
"We've done X and that's been good,
so I guess you ought to go to half X."

Because the major immediate problems of Restoration revolve around money — negotiations are going on with the city right now to work out some tax relief assistance on the $100,-000 in real estate taxes owed on the commercial center, for example — the corporation is initiating major national and local fund-raising efforts.

Mr. Thomas said he was optimistic about renewed national interest in the problems of cities and what that might mean for efforts such as his. "We have to have the turn of mind.

and attitude that says We care about the future of cities," he continued. "A major change in national emphasis—a matter, of will and direction-giving is as important as the matter of dollars."

At the same time, he said, no one should expect quick results. The notion 10 years ago was that if you had a commitment of will and some money available, that the mix

Social Security."

You're probably a long way from retirement. But haven't you already wondered how you'd get along if all you had to live on was a monthly Social Security check? Of course. Who hasn't?

Well-now you can count on a guaranteed income of a great deal more than that. As much as $50,000 or $60,000 a year for 10 years-if you're young enough and you start now.

If you are not already covered by a pension plan, the law allows you to put 15% of your salary—up to $1500 a year-into your own personal Individual Retirement Plan at The Lincoln and pay no taxes on the money or on the interest it earns for you until you retire (after 591/2 and before 701/2).

Your tax savings can be enormous and, your retirement fund can be absolutely astonishing. Look at this one example. Astonishing? But it's a fact. Although the exact total will depend on future interest rates. They may be lower or even higher than they are now.

Is it hard to set up? All you have to do is mail the coupon with as little as $5 to start your Individual Retirement Account now. Then, before December 31st, add up to 15% of your 1976 income or as much as $1500 and deduct the entire amount on your tax return. The Lincoln will do all the rest.

The sooner you start, the more likely you are to view those Social Security checks as fringe benefits.

And next year .- if you have a non-working spouse-you'll be able to deduct 15% of your income up to $1750 on your joint tax return-$875 for each of you.

Personal portrait sculpture — the medium of the wealthy, the beautiful and the famous is now surprisingly affordable.

We are proud to introduce Solid Photograply the new computer-controlled sculpture service that produces masterpiece sculpture of any adult or child from a two-second "photo" in our studio:

INTERNATIONAL GRAND OPENING TODAY IN TIME FOR CHRISTMAS

Today marks a truly historic occasion — the opening of the first and only Solid Photogra-phys Studio in the world at 551 Madison Avenue in New York City. Beginning today it will be open to craft beautiful, personal portrait sculpture to individual specifications.

Now, beautiful personal portrait sculpture that you can afford

Today, because of an ingenious and exclusive combining of the sciences of optics, electronics and computerization - it is possible to produce superb portrait sculptures that meet the most critical standards of accuracy and reproduction.

This extraordinary new service is called Solid Photographys and it enables any individual or family to now possess and cherishfully sculptured likeness of children, parents, sweethearts, anyone - at an extremely afford-

In just two remarkable seconds you can have your own personal sculpture started

With our Solid Photography<sup>64</sup> service you only have to spend a total of two seconds before our special cameras and then our system does the rest. No further sittings or posing of any kind

In just those two seconds every essential dimension of your likeness has been photographically recorded and coded for processing into sculpture. And then our Solid Photographysic compu-

How your final portrait sculpture is produced

First, your personal two-second "photograph" is developed and fed into our computer which commands a special machine to actually sculpt a wax master to your precise likeness. Then this wax master is used to cast your final sculpture in solid bronze or other material of your choice - and the resulting cast is painstakingly finished by our hand-craftsmen who prepare it for delivery to you within weeks, sometimes within one week, depending on circumstances.

And it all starts with your brief, but eritical, two-second special-camera exposure in our studio where every essential dimension, angle and unique curve and line of your individual features is recorded.

Order your sculpture in the size, medium and finish that fits your taste and budget

Imagine - once we make your two-second, special-camera photo --- you can have us sculpt your recorded likeness in the medium and finish that best reflects your taste and budget. That means you can order your final sculpture in materials like bronze, pewter, porcelain or even sculpted directly out of a solid block of rare wood like ebooy, if you wish.

With Solid Photography as never before you have a broad range of sculptural mediums and finishes to choose from. Whatever medium or price range you select you always get a magnificent level of sculptural accuracy and beauty that requires only a minimal amount of an artisan's participation.

Important limitations you should know about

There are a few limitations of this personal portrait sculpture service you should know about. The first is the requirement that everyone who is to have his personal portrait sculpted must come to our studio for the necessary two-second "photograph". Our special camera system is not portable nor can it record your individual dimensions from any other ordinary photo or picture. Also, you must remain still for two seconds while your special "photo" is taken.

But once we make your two-second exposure - or that of any friend or loved one you may send us - there is almost no limit to the kind-of beautiful sculpture we can produce

How this extraordinary and exclusive sculpture system was developed

This remarkable Solid Photography<sup>SM</sup> service was created by a select team of engineers at Dynell Electronics Corporation, an American Stock Exchange-listed firm that has invested over $3 million and five years in its research and development.

And today, Solid Photographysis is a conspletely developed and tested service that uses a safe, simple, two-second "photo" to produce timeless personal portrait sculptures for every person, family or organization that has a treasured likeness to capture and keep.

An additional Solid Photography<sup>5M</sup>

EXQUISITE CAMEOS AND OTHER JEWELRY BEAUTIFULLY CUS-TOM-MOUNTED WITH THE SCULPTURED LIKENESS OF YOURSELF OR LOVED ONES

With Solid Photography your onetime, two-second "photograph" by our special cameras gives you some extraordinary sculptural choices. In addition to beautiful personal portrait sculpture you can also have beautiful cameos or other jewelry custom-mounted with your miniature sculptural likeness. Or, if you like, you can order a small jewelry likeness first and later order any other jewelry or sculpture you may want.

But all you have to remember is that once your likeness has been recorded by. our special cameras it is available at future dates for directing the casting of any kind of sculpture or jewelry from The Studio for Solid PhotographysM

How to arrange your portrait sculpture appointment

It's easy to set up an appointment to get your portrait sculpture started with our two-second studio "photograph". Phone between 9-6 or stop by our new studio at 551 Madison Avenue (corner of 55th St.) to set up a time convenient

But you don't need an appointment to visit our new studio and see superb examples of sculpture produced by our Solid Photographysia service and to ask any questions you may have about having a portrait sculpture made.

Although he was in perfectly good physical shape, when Prince Charles officially ended his five-year tour of duty with the Royal Navy yesterday, he was trundled off in a wheelchair. That was the way the officers and crew of the minesweeper Bronington, which the heir to the British throne had command for 10 months, chose to bid farewell to their skipper. He was grabbed by his officers, who were wearing white surgeon's gowns, and plumped into an ancient wheelchair. Then, followed by some 40 cheering crewmen, he was whisked down the gangway and along the jetty to a waiting car. "Behave yourselves," was the prince's somewhat tardy parting order to his crew.

Unsurgery. The scar that didn't happen because you didn't go under the knife.

Unsurgery. The opinion of a second surgeon you saw, who said the operation wasn't necessary.

Unsurgery. The surgical opinion you didn't pay for, because it's the latest benefit from Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Greater New York.

Research has shown that some surgery is unnecessary.

In non-emergency operations such as tonsillectomies, hysterectomies, prostatectomies, where a doctor recommends surgery as the best course of action, we'll now pay for the opinion of a second surgeon, if you have Blue Shield surgical/ medical coverage. By calling the Second Opinion Referral Center you'll be given the names of three doctors selected from a list of 1,700 board-certified surgeons ... a surgeon located in the area convenient to you.

It's strictly confidential if you wish.

Furthermore, all lab tests or X-rays ordered by the second surgeon are free.

And if the first and second surgeons don't agree, we'll pay for the opinion of a third.

Second opinions are only available in the tri-state area, as long as you have our Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Greater New York surgical/medical plan. Of course, you must arrange for your second opinion through our referral center.

All you do is call (212-481-2658) and we'll give you three names to choose from, in your area. Oh, one more thing. If the second surgeon agrees an operation is needed, that surgeon cannot do the surgery. You go back to your original doctor.

How's that for peace of mind? If you want more information write us in care of the Second Opinion Referral Center, Box 345, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y. 10017.

ong with Mr. Hampton, Bunny is, a provocative end amusing tap er, is seen briefly and in frustratfashion. Working in a small area middle by tables, Mr. Briggs is the to most parrous only from the up. Because it is his style to tain an immobile, deadpan appearon both face and torso as his presented only by the sound of useen feet. As a result, he seems playing to a standing ovation, use his audience is up on its feet, ing to find his feet.

Lionel Hampton No longer the wildly energetic performer he once was:

"NUTCRACKER"

The Orchestra of the New York City Ballet is on

Performances of THE NUTCRACKER are cancelled until further notice. Ninety-five dancers and over a hundred stage crew, ushers, etc., are: out of work. WHY?

The Orchestra is asking increases up to $425 a week. The Company has offered increases up to $395. Other ballet orchestras playing at Lincoln Center are paid $330 a week.

The Orchestra is asking a reduction of services even though they already play fewer performances (7) than the dancers, stage crew andother theater employees (8), a week.

The Orchestra is asking a guarantee of 37 weeks a year. The Company is offering to guarantee 23 weeks, more than any other ballet company in the Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians representing the New York City Ballet Orchestra and other ballet orchestras has issued a scale for all ballet orchestras of $330 a week of 7 performances with no guaranteed weeks. Only the New York City Ballet is expected to accept the discriminatory conditions of a guarantee of 37 weeks of 6 performances at $425 a week.

THE NEW YORK STATE THEATER WILL BE CLOSED, IF YOU HOLD TICKETS FOR CAN-CELLED PERFORMANCES YOU MAY:

(1) Hold for later exchange

(2) Mail to NEW YORK CITY BALLET GUILD. New York State Theater, Lincoln Center, New York 10023, as a completely taxdeductible contribution

(3) Mail to box office for refund after the date of the performance.

Pink Panther Team Unflappable In Fourth High-Spirited Caper

Though "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" is the fourth Inspector Clouseau comedy to come from the collaboration of Peter Sellers, the star, and Blake Edwards, the director-producer and co-suthor, there are no signs that co-enthor, there are no signs that anyone's spirits are flagging or that sanity is in any way imminent. Ineptitude again triumphs—gloriously. Bungling is rewarded, and Clousean goes blithely on demonstrating that what he doesn't know, which is everything, can't know, which is everything, can't coeffily do him permanent dampossibly do him permanent dam-

To be oear Clouseau is to he at the edge of the hurricane's eye, to risk annihilation, which is pretty much what actually happens to Clouseau's former superior in the French Sureté, the once-sane Chief Inspector Dreyfus (Herbert Lom), in "The Pink Panther Strikes Again," which opened at Broadway and neighborhood theaters yesterday.

The new film, written by Mr.

Edwards and Frank Waldman, picks up Clouseau and Dreyfus several years after we left them in "The Return of the Pink Pan-ther," with Dreyfus, apparently cured after a nervous breakdown brought on by Clouseau, preparing to leave his psychiatric clinic near Paris. One get-well-visit by Clouseau, though, and Dreyfus is pushed over the brink forever, turning into a mad, Goldfinger-like supercrook whose gift for ultimate failure is as certain a law of metaphysics as Clouseau's for success physics as Clouseau's for success. They were made for each other, Clousean and Dreyfus, and I can't believe that a little matter like Dreyfus's having been rendered forever invisible at the end of the new film will prevent Mr. Edwards from reuniting the two sometime in

I'm not sure why Mr. Sellers and Mr. Lom are such a hilarious team, though it may be because each is a fine comic actor with a special talent for portraying the sort of fall-consuming, epic self-absorption

Archfiend Herbert Lom out to get Peter Sellers "Free-form comedy that goes where its gags lead it"

that makes slapstick farce initially acceptable—instead of alarming—and finally so funny. and finally so funay.

There is, too, something most winningly seedy about Mr. Sellers' Clouseau, a fellow who, when he attempts to tear off his clothes in the heat of passion, gets tangled up in his necktie, and who, when he masquerades—for reasons never the passion of the p gone into-as Quasimodo, overinflates his hump with helium.

Both Mr. Sellers and Mr. Edwards delight in old gags, and part of the joy of "The Pink Panther Strikes Again" is watching the way they spin out what is essentially a single routine, such as one fela single routine, such as one fel-low's trying, unsuccessfully, to help another fellow out of a lake. And how long has it hean since you've seen a crazy dentist rou-tine involving laughing gas and the wrong tooth? For me, too long. I'm also partial to the Sellers-Claussey Franch account that is al-

Clouseau French accent that is always discovering new words, such as "bimp" (as in "You have a nasty bimp oo your head"), "rust" (as in "You can rust assured") and "rheuem" (as in "I would like to have a rheuem for the night").

Sooth may be ours, too."

"The Pink Panther Strikes Again," which is more or less about Clouseau's seach for archfiend Dreyfus, moves all over the map, from Paris to London and Bavaria—where Dreyfus lives in a neo-Dracula castle — and back again, with a couple of detours to Washington, and a White House inhabited by a President who stumbles on rugs' edges,

It's not, I suspect, a movie to attend looking for reason. It has arid patches, but I couldn't care less. The film is free-form comedy that goes where its gags lead it. That's not to say that it's formless, only that its structure has less to do with narrative than with the comic explanative that with the comic exuberance of the collaborators, which, after four films, is un-diminished.

"The Pink Panther Strikes Again," which has been rated PG ("Parental Guidance Suggested"), contains a couple of bedroom scenes that have less to do with sex than with the confusion that can be caused by unexpected visi-

The Orpheus Are the Same

The Orpheus Chamber Ensemble is a headless wonder—a group of 25 youthful instrumentalists without a conductor who play so well that they obviously don't need one. Their lack of a leader may oven be the clue to their excellence, be-cause they take such pains to coordinate their work precisely. They made their latest appearance on Tuesday night at Alice Tully Hall, with a thoroughly engaging pro-

A lively Sinfonia in B flat by Johann Christian Bach flourished through the beautifully articulated string passages in the fast move-ments and the exquisite woodwind playing in the Andante. The orchestrated version that Brahms made of his nine Liebestieder Waltzes could not have had a lovelier, more transparent texture, and Stravin-sky's "Dumbarton Oaks" Concerto enjoyed a sharp-edged clarity over-

Dvorair's Serenade for Strings had everything going for it except, unfortunately, plarity of pitch. In a sense, this was the most difficult work in the program for the group, because it would appear to need a leader to control the necessary flexibility of rhythm. The players managed this aspect surprisingly well, and the rubatos were well timed on everyone's part. There was warmin, color and vigor in the performance, but it must be admitted that the faulty intonation was disconcerting.

The Hagues Sing at Ballroom

Ingratiating and unpretentious

Albert Hague, the composer of the scores of "Redhead" and "Plain and Fancy," who is this week's entry in the "Broadway at the Ballroom" series at the Ballroom, 458 West Broadway, is not the ideal singer for most of the songs he has written. He was born in Germany and still has strong traces of an accent, which he uses primarily for comedy effect, coming on like a cheerful Lawrence Welk But Mr. Hague's songs are not, as a rule, comic songs. So he is fortunate in having, in his wife, Renée Orin, a singer with a lovely voice and a charming, ingratizing personality. As a team, they create a balance that turns a program of pleasant and varied songs into a delightfully relaxed and unpreten-MOUS AVEDING

Miss Orin has the ability to move easily from a tongue-twisting Cockney song to the open warmth of Mr. Hague's best-known song, "Young and Foolish" from "Plain and Fancy," end to bring a post-tive identity to each song Mr. Hague meanwhile, recalls his work with lyricists as widely separated as Langston Hughes and Allan Sherman and exhibits an early effort at writing hillbilly songs ("I've Got a Rock for a Pillow Cause You've Got a Stone for a

Mr. Gradus asks wery difficult physical feats of his dancers, with soaring leads and mangerous lifts—at times with men partnering men—and also an air of emotionation, or sometimes burnog quite diverged from any stery line or indeed any narrative connotations.

Mr. Gradus likes to have bodies in-terrivining, or balancing tends one an-terrivining, or balancing tends one an-other, and at times his informants are not far removed from circus acrobatics. But they are done for their charm and originality rather than merely their deverness. There is also a very strong-vein of bumor running through this interesting young man's work.

The wit was perhaps best shown off-

Classic Company, Directed by Lawrence Gradus, Makes U.S. Debut at Riverside Church

But the movement characteristics

re wes a surprise at the Theater of the Riverside Church last night. A supprise from Montreal. It was a small regard. Canadian classic dance company called Patre-Six, and it was making its American debut.

The company was founded in 1974, by a native New Yorker, Lawrence Gradus, and his Montrealer wife, Jacqueline Lemienx. Mr. Gradus for some years was a soloist with American Ballet Theater, which he left to join Lerome Robbins's Ballets U.S.A. When that company dissolved after a counter. that company dissolved, after a couple of years in regional ballet, he went up to Montreal to join Les Grands Ballets Canadiens. After retiring young as a dancer (he is only 38 now) he taught for a time in the Grands Ballet's school, where he met his wife.

Now they have this most engaging company of just six very lively dancers. Since the company's inception it seems that only one dancer has left, and the performance does have the air of both a team and a family. All the choreography is by Mr. Gradus himself.

Mr. Gradus is clearly a choreographer of musual originality. Occasionally you can see the influence of Mr. Robbins. In his ballet "Sentiments," for example, to music by Rayel, there example to music by Rayel, there seemed to be some groupings that came straight, or almost out of Mr. Robbins's 'Moves.' Also, samething of the intellectual approach to choreography perhaps owes a little to the same inspiration. It would be a typical Robbins device to start two daets, as Mt. Gradus does in 'Nonetto,' with mirror images of the same pose.

The injunction sought by Maryland would make the current ocean dump by Camden its last. The E.P.A. is now saying that it hopes Camden can convert to land-based disposal by the time its emer-gency permit comes up for renewal about 85 days from now.

Last month, the E.P.A. refused to renew Camden's ocean-dumping permit be-cause, it said, Camden had failed to develop acceptable land-based means for sludge disposal.

The city, which dumps about 15 million gallons a year of sewage sludge 35 miles off Ocean City, Md., went to court, asserting that it only had several days storage space left and needed an emergency per

'Ipi-Tombi' to Open At Harkness Jan. 12

"Ipi-Tombi," the black African musical that has been playing at Her Majesty's Theater in London for more than a year, will make its New York debut at the Harkness Theater, Broadway and 63d Street, on Jan. 12, after a series of previews beginning Dec. 28. "Ipi-Tombi" was conceived by Bertha Egnos, who also composed the music. The lyncs are by Gail Lakier and the choreography by Sheila Wartski, Neil McKay and mem-

"Ipi-Tombi" is also a hit in Johanne burg, where it is the longest-running show in the history of the South Afri-can theater—almost three years. The production, which mixes traditional and modern rhythms, also has had succes-ful engagements in Paris, Toronto and Tel-Aviv. Experiments of the program it took six people to adapt a short story by Bret Harte into the musical "M'liss—The Wildcat Kid," which opened last night at O'Lunney's Theater on Second Avenue, But the blame on authorship by committee.

"M'liss" is a wretchedly bad idea, incompetently carried out. The melo-dramatic story about a gold prospector, his lovely daughter and the two evil people who try to swindle them out of their gold strike is probably unrevivable. Roseans Sheridan has written three middling songs for it, and the rest of the music accompanied by a banjo and fiddle group—is a variety of familiar tunes by Stephen Foster and others. One of the Foster pieces, "You are the Queen of My Song," is unfamiliar and quite pretty.

The actors hoot and holler around the stage, roll their eyes, emote, and dance jigs as if hooking thumbs into waistoosts and bumping into the furnifure was the true spirit of the frootier. Sometimes they kid their lines, some-times they run with them. What they never manage to do is disinter them.
It was the kind of evening that makes more demands on the performing abilities of the audience than of the actors. Some of those present last might, possibly friends, did manage to put on a coovincing show—hissing the villain and the like—of being some Last Chance township visited by a stagecoach-full of performers.

Princess Grace to Narrate Film On Kirov School and Its Students

Princess Grace of Monaco will appear. as narrator in "The Children of Theater Street," a feature-length film documentary concerning Russia's famous Kirov School of Ballet, it has been announced by the American producer Earle Mack. According to the producer, it is the first major film to be shot behind the scenes of the world-renowned Vaganova Institute of Choreography (the Kirov School), which is on Theater Street in Leningrad.

Mr. Mack, recently returned from participate in the venture, said. We were delighted to have been given the opportunity to make a permanent record of the school and its brilliant teaching methods and to provide an insight into the personal life style of its students." Most of the proceeds from the film will go to the Princess Grace School for Classical Ballet in Monaco, and to other cultural endeavors.

The Kirov School has produced suchballet stars as Nureyev, Baryshnikov, Mekarova, Pavlova, Niiinsk and Bal-anchine. Jean Dalrymple is serving as associate producer of the film, which is to be directed by Robert Dornhelm.

Sword of Napoleon Sold for $74,250

The sword Napoleon Bonaparte carried when be drove the Council of Five Hundred out of St. Cloud in 1799, ending France's parliamentary Govern-ment, was sold at Christie's in London on Toesday, with four pistols, for $74,250. The sword is part of a garniture of arms presented to Napoleon by the Di-rectory of the French Republic in 1797, after he had defeated the Austrians and Sardinians. It was sold as a set, with it secompanying two pairs of pistols and a short rifle.

The arms, which someooe had once tried in vain to sell to George IV, and had been in the possession of descend-ants of an Irish Lord of Galway for 140 years, brought less than half what General Lafayette's sword commanded when it was sold in New York at Sotheby Parke Bernet last month.

The presentation blade, the gift of the Continental Congress to Lafayette in 1779, was the subject of brisk bidding, and the Smithsonian Institution lost out to Couot René du Chambrun. a direct descendant of Lafayette, who bought the sword for $145,000.

A year ago these people and hundrads of others mobbed Zabar's, the food emporium at 2245 Broadway at $0th Street, when the store began selling the Cuisinart food processor for $135. (At the time department stores sold it for $190.) They received instead a rain check because Zabar's could no longer get the processor from the man-ufacturer, Cuisinarts Inc. of Stamford, Conn.

Zabar's contended that the manufacturer had shut off the supply because the store had cut the price Cuisinarts Inc. said that it sold only to department stores and not to food stores. The Cuisinart food processor has been-hailed by chefs and food critics asa revolutionary kitchen appliance for chopping, grinding and blending. It is made in France and has been on the market in the United States for about

Honored First 172 Rain Checks

By the time Zabar's stopped issuing rain checks in the middle of January. it had passed out 962. The store filed a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission and sued Cuisinarts Inc. for $5 million Meanwhile, the store began building a stockpile of the processors by buying them at cost plus 10 percent from food specialty stores in the New York area.

Yesterday Zabar's began honoring the first 172 rain checks. Murray Klein, the store's president, stacked processors near the front of the store and was infused with rain check holders, all of whom had received a registered letter from the store earlier this month. Mr. Klein passed out more than 50 of the Cuisinart processors in 30 minutes and the line of customers waiting to pay backed all the way back to the cheese counter in the back.

"I was told I would be getting one for a Christmas present," said Kathy Coonell of Manhattan, "when I got the Zabar's letter in the mail. I really didn't think it would ever pay off."

Arthur Schwartz of Oceanside, L. I., held up a very torn and frayed rain check number 92 and said, "My wife kept it in her wallet for a year. We were on the verge of buying a Farberware [a newly developed processor that sells for $120] and in fact we had been nut looking at one in a store the day the registered letter arrived."

Dr. Percy Klingenstein said that his wife had gotten a rain check but "she never thought it would come to anything. Right before she died she bought a Cuisinart somewhere else. This one is for my daughter who wants it for her lean-to in Wisconsin."

Proof of Perseverance

Those who showed up at Zabar's yesterday afternoon to claim their processors were pleased at the money they were saving (the Cuisinart now sells in department stores for $225) but most appeared to be more satisfied by their Mrs. Hollander, the woman who filed her rain check under "kitchen," said, "To tell the truth, I figured I'd never get it. But I beld out because I had a hope that a not one would turn up or that Zabar's would come through."

Judy Wasserman stood in line to pay for her processor and said, "I am an-noyed at the whole incident. The only reason I bothered to keep the ticket should fix prices."

Several customers appeared to be well-versed with the Federal fair trade laws, which, until they were repealed in December 1975, had permitted fixed prices on such goods as jewelry and ap-

Close to a Settlement

"We are very close to a settlement with Cuisinarts," said Stanley Zabar, one of the store's owners. "I have told our lawyer that if the manufacturer won't settle before Christmas we are going to court no matter what."

Mr. Zabar said that an out-of-court settlement being discussed would require Cuisinarts Inc. to supply Zabar's with enough food pressors to honor the 962 rain checks and would restore supply on at least a limited basis. Carl Sontheimer, the president of Cuisinarts Inc. was not available for comment yesterday, arcording to his office. A spokesman for the company declined to comment in Mr. Sontheimer's absence.

According to Mr. Klein, who buys bousewares for the store, Zabar's has been paying smaller stores $135 to $155 for those processors shipped from the manufacturer after the list price was increased to $225 earlier this year. Yesterday, those rain check holders who chose wint Zabar's called the "new" Cuisinart, paid $155. Those who-chose processors purchased before the list price increase paid $135. Two hours after the store began to honor the rain checks, the stack of 172 processors had diminished to 30. "We'll be getting in about 25 more in a couple of days," Mr. Klein said. "If we can get Cuisinarts to start supplying us again we'll honor all of the tickets as fast as we get themlin."

Klein coat exchanged looks with the identically dressed woman across the aisle. At first, there was a "what-areyou-doing-in-my-coat?" glare. Then,

On the city streets, the cost keeps popping up in camel, navy or black versions, but it's most visible in bright red, competing for attention with the Salvation Army Santas.

"I never thought I wanted a red coat, said Ricky Rosenthal, a writer at the United Nations. But when I saw his, I thought, This is a terrific coat, and bought it like a shot."

The coat has everything she continued. Nice clean lines, warmth (there's a button-in wool hining), big pockets that take gloves and keys and bus fares, and a hood when the wind whips up from the East River.

Each year there is an "in" coat among the fashion watchers who know a good thing when they see it. This winter the palm goes to the melton cloth number designed by Calvin Klein, which is easily identified because of its suede elbow patches and hood. It's not exactly cheap ($250 plus tax at most Fifth Avenue stores), but then it costs considerably less than

The recent cold sings brought out a bevy of Calvin Klein fans. "I normally don't like something everybody else has," said Laura Hill, a salescierk at Charles Jourdan, who owns a red one. "But it's so great, I don't mind seeing a lot of them on the street."

"It's beautiful and incredibly com-fortable," raved Robin Logan, a model, who was wearing the camel version. "I like the hood and the lining," remarked Wendy Mead, mother of two young children, who has the navy ver-sion. The identical coat was bought by Barbara Schulman, another East Side. mother—"It's a super coat."

Shoppers in Bonwit's kept spotting other Calvin Klein groupies. Carey Levien, a student, wore the camel version worn by Patricia Logan, an airlines passenger agent, who said she loved

"I saw it and fell in love with it," contributed Sherry Borus, a sales ex-ecutive, wearing another camel version. "At first, it bothered me when I saw so many like it. But I'm so fond of it, I don't care."

Snow-making machine works on section of the Pines ski area in South Fallsburgh, N.Y.

Ski Resorts Across the Nation Light on Snow

By MICHAEL STRAUSS

It wasn't too long ago that ski area operators in upper New England and upper New York scoffed at the idea of installing snow-making machines. The general feeling was that snow-producing plants were too expensive and un-necessary. "Who needs

Eventually such disbelievers as Pabst, Hans Thorner of Magic Moun-tain and Damon Gadd of Sugarbush decided artificial help, once the cold weather arrived, really was needed. Pabst fell into lina to such an extent that be invested $750,000 to install a

This season so far has produced a minimal amount of natural snow. The result is that almost all ski resorts now open in the East are selling lift tickets only because they have machines. More than two dozen have been doing business while offering only limited skiable terrain—on runs serviced by the machines.

The dearth of snow has not reached a critical point in the East—yet. In earlier years, almost all of skiing's entrepreneurs seldom planned openings until the weekend before Christmas. But, if a snowstorm doesn't develop soon, many millions of dollars in potential ski revenue wili be lost across the United States.

In the West-even in the real high country of Colorado, Wyoming, Oregon and California—a financial crisis for ski resorts is in the making. Only those centers in Colorado—there are seven with mostly small show-making plants have been doing business since at least the middle of last month.

The situation is so bleak for such popular Colorado retreats as Aspen, Vail, Crested Butte, Purgatory and Steamboat Springs that Colorado Ski

Harry Beater, the marketing director at Wybering's Jackson Hole, which has no snow making machines, confessed the simation in his part of the country had reached a "crisis stage." Baxter reported.

The problem for the West, it is said, has been caused by a high pressure area stalled over the Pacific Ocean. "We've eyen looked into seeding clouds," concluded Baxter. "That would cost us $10,000. But so far there aren't even clouds to seed."

Two Shih Tzu Perform Rare Feat With Successive Best in Shows

A pair of luxuriously coated Shih Tzu dominated the New England shows Tzu dominated the New England shows over the weekend. Victor Joris, the New York designer, had his Ch. Chumulari Chin Te Jih singled out for the top honors in an all-breed field of 2,503 Saturday night at the 63d Eastern Dog

Club event in Boston and Int. Ch. Hoppa Shu V.D. Oranje Manege, an import from the Netherlands, was named best in show Sunday night at the Worcester County K.C. affair at Holy Cross College Field House. This show had 1,030 dogs to competition.

Fanciers believe that this is the first time representatives of this toy breed have gone to the top at either event or that two Shih Tzu have captured best-in-show suards at successive all-breed competitions. One thing is cer-tain—the best-in-show silver was a first for both 3-year-old champions, who will be campaigned in 1977. Hoppa Shu is owned by Lise Maybury Miller of Secaucus, N.J.

Joris said he was "absolutely flab-bergasted" as handler, Jane Forsyth of Southbury, Conn., guided Ch. Chumu-lari Chin Te Jih to victory in Hynes Auditorium. "I. was there but I had just been hoping he'd place in the

Kuhn, man recognized as commissioner of ill by nearly evybody except Charley Finley. In the midd sits Federal Judge Frank McGarr, a meanth no known record in baseball. who ostponed the start of the trial one day'scause he was still occupied in a le Times crimal case.

If w have the feeling that there's more all action in our coms than in stadiums these days, re probably rig. In fact, this trial arose because of or one earlier is year when an arbitrator and two 'il courts ruled at the old "reserve system" in baseas no longer being and that players might sell their es in the open tarket whenever their contracts ran

Three days later, the commissioner d that the sal were "not in the best interests of il" and cancel them. Finley countered with a law-at asked triple amages for his "lost" $3.5 million.

e then, the ise of triple damages has been elimifrom the case, ut Fioley is still suing because he is $3.5 million-d minus his stars. He did take back alue under a my three-year contract, but the others ecame free ants and skipped town, Rudi to the ris Angels and ingers to the San Diego Padres.

boils down twhether the commissioner can sit in room and dede what's good for baseball," says ipiano, the demated attorney for Finley, and most agree that is deed the issue.

Fbd vs. Kuhn et al

arry the issue ie step further, can the commissioner what's good or baseball even if it's terrible for Or is baseball kind of private club that people join they buy teas, surrendering their right to rebel later rulings y their elected commissioner?

ions will be mning high in Judge McGarr's courtit Clark and Aons Streets because neither Finley nor has been winng any popularity contests lately. In ions as dictate of the team, Charley won five straight nal titles and ree straight world titles but also hired magers. On the occasions, he was fined by Kuhn, makes no bors about accusing the commissioner of ng malice. It pparently cuts both ways. Two years inley led a place revolt that nearly dethroned the ssioner. And when the sales were oullified in June, pared Kuhn nfavorably with "the village idiot." no great adirer of Finley's," says Joe Iglehart, one owners of the Yankees, showing the crosscurrents,

"but I think he is going to win and I hope he wins. That was his property, his 31/2 million bucks that he lost."

The trial may last three weeks, with time out for the holidays, and the higgest audience will probably be drawn when Kuhn is called to the witness stand - as it was when Curt Flood took the stand in an earlier landmark case in 1969: Curtis C. Flood vs. Bowie K. Kubn at al. The issue was the reserve clause, which Flood attacked when the St. Louis Cardinals traded him to the Philadelphia Phillies. This is how the testimony went when the center fielder was questioned by his lawyer, Arthor J. Goldberg, former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court:

Mr. Flood: At the end of the 1957 season, I talked to the general manager and he asked me if I would go to South America and learn-to play the infield, and, of course, when they ask you to do something like that you are inclined to

Mr. Goldberg: What kind of infielder were you? A.—Terrible.

Q.—That is what you learned from your experience in playing in Venezuela?

A.—That I was an outfielder, yes.

Q.—Will you tell His Honor and others, the counsel, what type of year did you have in baseball terms [as a rookie in the minor leagues?? A .- 1 hit .340, 1 led the league in everything except home runs and I think I hit 30 home runs as well. Q.—That isn't bad, is it?

L-That is a very good year.

Q.—Have you ever been fined by the Cardinals? A.—Well, I was fined $250 by the general manager for missing a banquet. I suffered an injury the day prior to the banquet a spike wound five or six inches across my foot. The Court-I am somewhat disappointed with that answer. I thought it was because he wanted to avoid the

typical banquet food. How to Win While Losing

But behind the light stuff, some long shadows were cast toward today's trial in Chicago in the era of the free egent: Q.—Are you prepared to sign a contract with Philadelphia or $90,000 to play? A.—No, I am not.

Q.—Are you ready and eager to play baseball now?

Q .- With whom do you want to play? A.—The team that makes the best offer.

Curt Flood didn't win that particular battle, dropping decisions right up to the Supreme Court. But now, seven years: later, the rest of the ballplayers have won the war—to play for the team that makes the best offer. And that is why Charley Finley is aiming his broadside at Bowie Kulm: challenging his handling of what's in "the best interests of baseball."

Suppose Joe Rudi is ordered to report to Boston? somebody asked Dick O'Connell, vice president of the Red Sox, who now have plenty of outfielders but need help in the

McAdoo's First Drill Today With Knicks Raises Doubts

The face lifting of the Knicks' front line begins today when Boh McAdoo engages in his first workout with his new teammates at Pace University.

McAdoo, sidehned with a groin injury since his arrival from the Buffalo Braves last week, is scheduled to play his first game in a New York uniform tomorrow night against the Celtics in McAdoo's reputation as a top scorer, rebounder and shot-blocker is well known. Those are weak areas that have shown up among Knick centers and forwards since the retirement of Willis Reed, Dave DeBusschere and Jerry Lucas Fitting McAdoo's talents with those of Spencer Haywood, Walt Fra-zier and Earl Monroe, all shoeters, and restoring the "helping" offense and de-fonse that the Knicks once made fa-mous now becomes a hurried problem.

Can He Play With Haywood? . . . The Knicks need to win quickly so as not to be dutdistanced in the race for a playoff berth. Winning is also tied to their future at the box office. There are plenty of seats to be sold.

are plenty of seats to be sold.

In retrospect, McAdoo's arrival brings some of the same bopes that Haywood's did when Spencer was purchased for $1 million from the Seattle SuperSonics in October 1875. But Haywood was not the seattle the Knight. wood was not the answer to the Knick problems. Whether McAdoo is, time will tell.

With so many shooters, talk has been revived that McAdoo will be unable to play with Haywood. A similar story was passed around in 1971, when Monroe came to New York and teamed in the backcourt with Frazier. They have played together since and formed the basis for the guard-oriented Knicks.

"I would think Red [Holzman] is going to keep tomorrow's practice as simple as possible," said Eddie Donovan, the general manager. "He will probably stick to the basic things, the simple plays and let the options on those plays come up by themselves.

"Blending Mac with the other guys is not going to happen overnight. The guys will have to get to know each other's habits. They need to know each other's strong suits and when to use them. Mac blocks shots, he runs, he shoots well and it's a matter of hlending everyone's talents to eather."

ing everyone's talents together."

Tom McMillen, who was part of the Buffalo trade, will also take his first Knick practice, The 6-foot-11-inch McMillen has played two games with the knicks, but has yet to practice with them. He was rushed into action because of a shortage of big men Saturday night and scored 19 points. He had a career high of 21 in the 111-98 loss Tuesday night to the Spurs in San Antonio.

Haywood, who missed two games because of knee problems, is expected to be back for poday's practice but Jim McMillian and Bill Bradley are still ail-

'McMillen has done a great joh for us," said Donovan. "He got a chance to show he can play."
The Knicks began with eight healthy players against the Spurs, a team that does not have many plays and there-fore ad libs, but rebounds and runs well. With 9½ minutes left, Phil Jack-son fouled out and five minutes later

Lonnie Shelton fouled out. The game ended with a Knick lineup of four guards—Ticky Burden, Butch Beard, Mo Layton and Frazier—and McMillen. There were strange matchups during the game—the 6-4 Frazier against 6-9 Larry Kenon and the 6-3 Beard against 6-8 Mark Olberding or 6-10 Coby Dietrick.

Jazz Fans Disgruntled

The smallest crowd of the season turned out at New Orleans Treeday night and saw the Jazz, in its first game under Coace Elgin Baylor, van Breda Kolff's successor, defeat the Kansas City Kings. One of the 6,119 disgruntled fans tossed an egg at Barry Mendelson, the Jazz executive vice president who had dismissed van Breda

"We knew Barry would be crucified," said Larry Hatfield, the team's majority owner, "but we had to make a decision before it was too late.' A survey in New Orleans showed that 83 percent of those polled objected to the dismissal of the popular van Breda Kolff. The National Baskethall Association will also be a big loser because he led the league in technical fouls, which cost him $75 for the first and

BY WILLIAM N. WALLACE

From a statistical standpoint, the Pittsburgh Steelers are the stroogest of the eight teams in the National Football League playoffs, according to Bud Goode, the noted sports computer analyst, and he believes they will defeat the Colis by more than the betting margin, 31/2 points, at Baltimore on Sunday. Speaking from his base in Los Angeles yesterday, Goode said his oum-bers also forecast an upset victoy for the Rams over the Cowboys, who are favored by 3, and a clear-cut decision for Oakland over New England. As for Washington and Minnesota, his figures see that game as even. But I wouldn't bet a dime on any of these games," he said, "because they figure to be so close to the betting line." Oakland is favored by 7 points and Minnesota by 51/4.

Royal Succeeded by Akers As Football Coach at Texas

Who better to coach the Longhorns than a Cowboy? Obviously, the University of Texas bought that logic, because yesterday Fred Akers, the head football coach at Wyomeng, was named head football coach at Texas, succeeding Darrell Royal, who resigned two weeks ago after 20 years in the job. Akers, who was a top assistant to Royal for eight years, thus rejoins the Longhorns after two years with the Cowboys.

Akers, who is 38 years old, had been both offensive and defensive coordinator with the Longhorns. In his first year at Wyoming, his team won only two of 11 games, but this season the Cowboys had an 8-3 won-lost mark and will play Oklahoma on Christmas Day in the Fiesta Bowl. Akers is a long-time friend of Royal, who remains at Texas as athletic director.

Akers'a contract is said to be worth

Akers's contract is said to be worth $45,000 per year. He was a high school coach in Texas and played college football at Arkansas. He was in charge of the Texas defensive secondary during the Longhorns' national championship years in 1969 and 1970.

Heading the list of 34 former major league baseball players to be considered in this year's voting for inclusion in the Hall of Fame are Ernie Banks and Eddle Mathews, each of whom hit 512 career bome runs. Banks twice the National League's most valuable player as a Chicago Cubs shortstop, is eligible for the voting this year for the first time, having retired in 1972.

Mathews, a perendial All-Star with the Braves, finished lifth in last year's voting as Bob Lemon and Robin Robin the Braves, finished fifth in last year's voting as Bob Lemon and Robin Robierts were voted into the Hall of Fame by 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Other first-time candidates this year include Jim Bunning, who won 224 games in his pitching career, Curt Flood, Harvey Knenn and Camilo Pasemal. Also eligible this year are players such as Gil Hodges, Nellie: Fox and Duke Snider, who failed to get the necessary votes from 75 percent of the voting electorate in past years.

If any baseball team wants him as a player in 1977, Bill Freehan, the veteran Detroit Tiger catcher first baseman, is free to make his own deal. The Tigers announced yesterday that they would not offer the 35-year-old Freehan a contract for 1977, possibly Freehan a contract for 1977, possibly forcing his retirement.

Freehan played 1,774 games as a Tiger, the only club he played for since joining the majors in 1961, He was selected to the American League All-Star-team 11 times, and holds three major league career records for catching most fielding chances, most putouts and highest fielding average. Freehan hit 300 in 1964, and compiled a 262 career batting average. The Tigers have offered him a position in their executive organization.

What's happening in Cleveland? Joel Horlen is coming. The former pitcher who threw a no-hitter for the White Sox in 1967 has signed on as a minor league pitching instructor with the Indians. And Jim Pappin is leaving. Pappin, a right wing with the Barons, and nounced his retirement from hockey after 13 seasons. Pappin had 279 career goals, 32d on the National Hockey, League's all-time scoring list.

File this item under good news. Al Oliver, an outfielder for the Pittsburgh

Pirates, announced the formation of a scholarship fund in memory of Bob Moose, the Pirates' pitcher who died in an auto accident in October. Oliver said that all money raised would go to provide an education for Moose's 5-year-old daughter, and to a college scholarship fund at Franklin High School in Export, Pa., Moose's home town.

Perhaps the best kept secret in sports is the identity of tha man who will marry Olga Kerbut, the Soviet symnastics star. Miss Korbut said yesterday in Florida that "yon could shoot her" and she still wouldn't reveal the name of her fiance. She also said through an interpreter that she is a gift for her intended. "What other gift does he need?" Miss Korbut asked.

a catcher, are expected to start next season. Apodaca is a relief pitcher. By definition, he won't start.

Just what we need, another professional sports league. This one is the National Show Pitch Softball League, which plans an 80-game schedule in cities and towns as yet unnamed. The gimmick here is the executive staff. Wes Parker, a former first baseman with the Dodgers, has been named commissioner. Other notables on the commissioner of the control include Nolan Ryan, Tommy John, Ron Fairty and Jonathan Winters, a comedian and trash bag salesutan.

The Washington Redskins who like to preach family and togetherness within their organization, are being sued in their organization, are being sued by a former player. Mike Bass, a cor-nerback who left the team earlier this year complaining of severe headaches and back pains, filed suit yesterday in Washington, seeking about $100,000 in back pay, medical bills and legal fees.

Bass said that when he walked out of training camp "on the advice of the team physician," his paychecks stopped. Bass was due to receive $78,000 in

Notre Dame and Army Fives Off to Rousing Starts

By GORDON S. WHITE It. Notre Dame's undefeated basketball m, which has sufprised even its coach, Digger Phelps, completed an un-nated feat in the last six days by beatthe University of California, Los geles, 66-63, last Saturday and then Indiana, 78-65, Tuesday follege night. This is apparently the first time in regular-Sports season play that a team Notes has gained successive victories over the two most ecent National Collegiate champions.

team is the equal of the Bruins who spin the N.C.A.A. title in 1975 or that has season's Hoosiers compare with the bunch that won the title last March. But Notre Dame is proud of Phelos said: "We arrived back on campus at 2:38 A.M. Sunday from Los Angeles after beating U.C.L.A. and there were 4,000 people waiting for us, along with the band. And it was 16 degrees outside."

The Irisb press defenses and team

speed took care of the struggling Hoosiers in the next ching. But this was a costly victory for Notre Dame, which entered the season with some notable losses because of the gradoation of Adrian Dantley and Tom Renscher's

Speaking by phone from South Bend,

Ind., yesterday, Phelps said, "Ray Martin is out for the season. He broke an ankle last night and he was operated on this morning."

This means Martin's varsity career is ended because the guard is a senior. Rich Branning, a freshman, will start in Martin's place. Branning, from Huntington Beach, Calif., was recruited by Phelps right out from under the shadows of U.C.L.A.'s palm trees. He returned to his native state last Saturday and became Notre Dame's lategame here as he scored 4 points in the last 45 seconds to beat the Bruins.

Phelps continues to try out against the use of freshmen on his varsity team, but he continues to use them because if I didn't they would go to U.C.L.A. or Indiana or somewhere else where they would play as freshmen."

The Notre Dame coach said: "Our kids are just drained right now. And it's too demanding on freshmen who have problems of governing their time for basketball and classroom and study with little left over. It's just the system, though, and you have to use them or lose them."

Phelps is playing Bill Hanzlik, another freshman, quite a bit.

Army is turning in just as amazing a start this season as Notre Dame, although the Cadets are not quite in the Irish's class. Mike Krzyzewski's unbeaten Black Knights have won their first six games, including a triumph over St. Peter's last Saturday that the coach feels might have been "the needed big boost." ed big boost."

This Army team is even younger than Notre Dame's. There is not one senior Cadet and Krzyzewski has two plebes on the squad—Robbie Vaughn and Vince Brooks. Gary Winton, a junior, is the strength of Army's team, averaging 22 points and 10 rebounds and a shooting mark of 63 percent from the floor. He was a national leader in fieldgoal percentage last season.

Krzyzewski, a 1969 graduate of West

Shofner 49ers' Aide

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15 (AP) Jim Shofner, who resigned recently as head football coach at Texas Christian University, is returning to the San Francisco 49ers as an assistant coach. Monte Clark, the head coach, announced the hiring of Shofner today. Three 49ers' assistants, Dick Enright, Jim Spavital and Ed Alsman, were re-leased.

Point, said that the current scandal-investigation had little effect upon his

"Our morale is good. The kids get involved in basketball and their class work and they are not affected by all that, They're the same as any Cadets just like we were. Now just before Christmas they'll all be down a bit. Winning six in a row helps them be even a bit higher than normal going into the holidays. Cadets are stall cadets—up high on Friday and down and blue on Monday. I was that way. It's the Cadet syndrome. The thing to do is keep playing this well arter Christmas and on Mondays."

Winton should set an Army career scoring record this season, breaking the mark of 1,342 points established by Mike Silliman from 1963 to 1966.

Krzyzewaki, who teaches the fighting man-to-man basketball that he was told to play under Coach Bobby Knight at Army, said: "Our goal is the E.C.A.C playoffs. We can't expect to be under feated but we can hope and we can certainly attain those playoffs." Army will be a candidate for the Eastern Col lege Athletic Conference Metropolitar Region playoffs this season.

The playoff winner moves into the N.C.A.A. championship event. It's pos sible, although not probable, to see ar Army-Notre Dame match in the N.C.A.A. tournament Krzyewski aaid "I'd like to get Notre Dame on our regular schedule. It would make a grea game for Madison Square Garden."

It would certainly be a better match right now than the 1977 Army-Notro Dama football match appears to be.

Gurkhas Band Is Victo In Berlo at Aquede

There was a Canadian flavor to the second running of the $37,675 Berin Handicap at Aqueduct yesterday. With the frozen lakes in the infield filling out the background, Gurkhas Band, a 4-year-old filly owned and trained by Canadians, scored a neck victory over the late-charg-ing Pacific Princess in the field of II. The margin of Tracks victory was deceptive. Gur-khas Band, notching her seventh success in 12 starts this season, apparently likes to loaf when she gets cosmortably in front. Her jockey, the 27-year-old Robin Platts, confirmed his filly's irksome habit after the race. For Platts, born in Leicester, England, and the owner, John H. Stafford, and Gil Rowntree, the Berlo success marked their first stakes frumph in Gurkhas Band a Kentucky-bred miss by Lurullah out of the Correspondent mare Hot Gossip, added $22,605 to her owner's bank account. She has earned $78,167 in 1976: Her Canadian connections plan to keep her at Aqueduct until Jan. 15, when she will make her next appearance in the $50,000 Interborough Handicap for fillies and mares.

Few horses have traveled as much this season and done as well as Gur-khas Band. The chestnut raiss over-khas Band. The chestnut raiss overpowered a speedy field at Suffolk

Downs in the Young Ladies Handicap
Nov. 27, toting 122 pounds and going six furlongs in 1:14 2/5.

She carried 121 pounds yesterday, conceding from four to 17 pounds. The crowd of 12,555, a slight rise over the last two days when the mercury and wind were equally unfit for racegoing, installed Ogden (Dinny) Phipps's Alpine Lass as the 3-1 favorite at post time. That was prohably attributable to the fact tilat the Berio, named for a stakes-winning Foxcatcher Farm mare, was Alpine Lass's farewell race. She goes to the court of Graustark next season.

Alpine Lass, ridden by Angel Cordero

Alpine Lass, ridden by Angel Cordero Jr., faded after making a mild gesture at the top of the stretch and wound up fiftil. Gurkhas Band returned $9.80

The winner got away fourth as George Cassidy (who later made the trophy presentation) sent at field without incident. The sumed command after a few and went the first quarter is seconds. St. Peter's Defeated

The Blackbirds, who led by 36-26 at the half, received 17 and 16 point productions from Kim Malcolm and Greg Winston, respectively, in their second victory in seven games. St Peter's (2-3) was led by Ken Slappy with 14 points and Bob Fazio with 13.

Undefeated Cincinnati

Downs Miami of Ohio OXFORD, Ohio, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gary Yoder scored 26 points and directed the offense of sixth-rated University of Cincinnati to a 79-68 victory over previously undefeated Miami of Ohio.

It was the first victory for Cincinati's coach, Gale Catlett, over the Redskins here in three attempts. Cincin-ati took an 11-8 lead, then, on Yoder's 14 points, roared to a 41-29 halftime lead and sixth victory of the season.

Brooklyn Bows, 68-54

Jersey City State opened the second half with a 13-4 spurt to break a half-time tie and defeated Brooklyn Col-lege, 68-54, last night.

Any such apprehension was removed once baskethall practice began. Now, although she is averaging 20 points per game and has the home crowd chanting "Jeel!" "Jeel!" along with "Whoop!" for her arching jump shots Cooper wishes his new star would become more aggressive. "Jill's whole problem is she's not aware of her height yet," the coach said. "In high school, all the people she played were shorter. Now she's meeting taller players, and she hasn't assessed her height."

As she prepares to return home for

of rushing plays per game, the difference between rushing plays run per game and opponent rushing plays allowed, points scored and given up, yards gained per pass attempt and yards allowed per pass attempt.

It is in these areas that a team defines itself best, according to Goode. The number of rushing plays indicates ball control, which can be so important in playoff games.

The following table illustrates how much Pittsburgh and Oakland improved their offenses in the second half of the season while the Baltimore and Dallas season while the Baltimore and Dallas attacks grew weaker. The league averages for rushing plays a game is 36, so the Steeler figure of 51.7 for the last seven games is, in Goode's view, "fantastic."

Connors, Miss Evert No. 1 In the World Rankings

By CHARLES FRIEDMAN Jimmy Comors has re-established himself as the world's No. 1 player and Chris Evert has retained her position at the top, according to the rankings issued yesterday by Tennis and World Tennis magazines.

In their annual selections, which are considered authoritative in the absence of official world tankings, both maga-zines rated Bjorn Borg of Sweden No. 2, Ilie Nastase of Rumania No. 3 and Guillermo Vilas of Argentina No. 4.

They also agreed on Evonne Goolagong of Australia as No. 2 and Virginia Wade of Britain as No. 3 among the women. But there were differences in the rankings. Tennis placed Manuel Orantes of

Spain fifth, Raul Ramirez of Mexico sixth Adriano Panatta of Italy seventh, Eddie Dibbs eighth, Harold Solomon ninth and Roscoe Tanner 10th World Tennis decided that Ramirez should be fifth, Orantes sixth, Dibbs seventh, Solomon eighth, Panatta ninth and Tanner 10th.

On the women's list, Tennis maga-zine's experts had Rosemary Casals and Martina Navratilova tied for fourth, but World Tennis put the little Californian fourth and the sturdy Czechoslovak defector fifth.

There was agreement on the oext three places—Sue Barker of Britain sixth, Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia seventh and Dianne Fromboltz of Aus-tralia eighth. But Tennis had Kerry Reid of Australia as No. 9, whereas World Tennis gave that spot to Betty Stove, the 6-foot Dutchwoman. For the last berth in the elite groop, there was a tie between Francoise Durr of France and Terry Holladay of La Jolla, Calif., as Tennis saw it. World Tennis gave it solely to Miss Holladay. Connors replaced Arthur Ashe at No

1. He won 13 tournaments in 1976, including the United States Open and the United States Pro Iodoor. At Forest Hills, be took the final from Borg, the Wimbledon, World Championship Tennis and United States Pro titleholder. He was ranked No. 1 in 1974, then gave way to Ashe.

Nastase had his best year since 1973, winning seven tournaments and reach-ing the semifinals at Forest Hills and the final at Wimbledon. Ramirez fin-ished first in the long Grand Prix sea-son, although be failed in the Masters, which was won by Orantes.

Who's going to catch MissEvert? Maybe 14-year-old Tracy Austin, when she grows up.

This is certainly true of
W. Michael Blumenthal, Mr. Carter's choice for Secretary of the Treasury.
Although Mr. Blumenthal rose to the top of the Bendix Corporation, he is a highly untypical member of the business establishment.

The son of poor German refugees who reached the United States via China in 1947, he worked his way through the University of California at Berkeley and the graduate school at Princeton, where he took a doctorate in economics.

His doctoral dissertation was on "mithestimmung" in German industry -co-determination by labor and management—a subject few American scholars, let alone businessmen, had beard of in the early 1950's.

Mr. Blumenthal worked as a labor arbitrator for the State of New Jersey before be joined Crown Cork International. He had a meteoric rise there. While still in his early 30's he was virtually running the company when he accepted appointed as deputy trade negotiator in the Kennedy Administration. He was a hard-driving negotiator.

Among husinessmen, Mr. Blumenthal is a rare crusader. After the Lockheed, Gulf and other business scandals of the 1970's, he called for corporations to adopt a code of professional ethics like those of lawyers and doctors. Most businessmen were cool to the idea. Said one at a Conference Board meeting. "You mean a code of ethics that would work as well as the bar association's?"

But Mr. Blumenthal is pragmatic, and be drops an idea when it does oot work. As the nation's chief financial officer, he is expected to have few ingi-bitions when it comes to using the powers of government when necessary

An Annuity and Mutual Fund Union

By ROBERT METZ

Ever since Congress designed a pen-sion plan for individuals whose employ-ers provide no retirement benefits, financial institutions have been competing to draw individuals into their own individual retirement accounts.

A recent approach combines mutual fund benefits with an annuity plan and is offered by two major fund organiza-tions, National Securities and Research Organization in New-York City and American Fund of Government Securities in San Francisco.

Now Axe Houghton Funds Inc. of-fers a new feature that the organization hopes will attract individuals seek-ing life insurance benefits in addition to annuity and mutual fund participa-

Axe Houghton stresses that the bulk of the money goes to annuity and mu-tual fund shares—not life insurance— but adds that most corporate plans offer all three benefits. Its plan is designed to provide results similar to those offered covered employees, the company adds.

Daniel Calabria, president of the Axe Securities Corporation, gave an example of how the plan would work. Under the rules, the individual who is not covered by a pension plan at work can deposit $1,500 a year or 15 percent of his income—whichever is less. Mr. Calabria chose the case of a 40-year-old individual earning enough to contribute the $1,500 limit. His contributions would be split equally, with $750 going to the life insurance-annuity side of the plan and $750 to the Axe Houghton Stock Fund, the company's $95 million mutual fund.

Assuming the individual in the example continued to contribute at the $1,500 rate for 25 years until retinement at 65, his guaranteed cash value would be $30,374 in all states except New York, where the cash value could be substantially higher.

The guaranteed rate of interest in all The guaranteed rate of interest in all. states is about 4 percent — which produces the $30,374 in the example—but New York contracts offer a higher return if the company earns more. At current yields, a New York State client in the example would bave a cash guarantee of $41,486; a figure Mr. Calabria agrees is unlikely to be attained.

As for the mutual fund side of the plan. Axe Houghton says that, if the results were the same as in the 25 years ended Dec. 31, 1975, there would be $66,838 in the fund pool for the individual in the example. However, there is no guarantee that the fund's success (its record is one of the best in the industry for that 25-year period) will continue. There is not even any assurance that this part of the plan will grow at all.

Mr. Calabria said that; in the last 25 years, the Axe Houghton Fund had increased in net asset value per share by 968 percent. In the last 20 years, the fund bas risen by 549 percent. But in the last 10 years, the fund has grown 75 percent and in the last five years just 18 percent.

In any event, the fund would be worth nearly $100,000 given a 4 percent interest rate on the insurance side

In response to a question, Mr. Calabria conceded that the life insurance benefits for those over 50 "come high"

under the Axe plan. He said that the life benefits were more attractive to individuals under 40. The younger the individual, the more years he could cootribute to his plan under the individual retirement account legislation. He cannot withdraw money without penalty prior to age 59½, barring disability.

Mr. Schultze is in fact likely to become the head of a decision-making unit on economics within Mr. Carter's Cabinet. As chairman of this economic policy body, Mr. Schultze would presumably be the first C.E.A. chairman to have Cahinet rank. He is thus likely to become the nation's first "secretary of economics."

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, would presumably not become a member of this Cabinet-level economic-policy group, given his own determination to preserve the Fed's "independence" from the Administration.

However, Dr. Burns reportedly has made a bit hit with Mr. Carter and is expected to work sympathetically with him. Dr. Burns likes to point out to friends that he has already, in one capacity or another, served five Presidents: Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon and Ford.

Mr. Carter has made clear that his No. 1 economic priority in the new Administration is going to be on creating more jobs. But his appointment of Mr. Lance signified that he had not forgotten his campaign commitment to reor-ganize the Federal Government. And his designation this week of Brock Adams to be Secretary of Transporta-tion stressed his intention of reorganizing the Department of Transportation. Reorganization, however, is a policy tool, not a policy objective. Mr. Carter remains a tool builder, but he is showing a preference for people who are also tool users for his Cabinet. He—and they—are not arraid of using the tools of Government policy, when needed, but they appear to prefer using the tools of the private sector, wherever

U.S. CAR OUTPUT EXPECTED TO SET A WEEKLY RECORD

DETROIT, Dec. 15—The American auto industry is scheduled to build a yearly high of 212,779 cars this week, up 2.7 percent from 207,133 last week, and 20.9 percent ahead of the 175,993 units built in the comparable year-ago week.

The estimates are the Week!

The estimates are from Ward's Auto motive Reports, the industry's statistical agency. It said that truck production this week was scheduled at 65,021 units, off 0.2 percent from 65,162 units built last week, but 17.5 percent ahead of 55,325

In Light Trading Volume Halting Four-Week Rally

By ELIZABETH M. FOWLER Soybean prices tumbled yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. The January contract closed at $6.86 a bushel, off 141/2

Some traders wondered if a four-week rally in bean prices had come to an end. Trading was light yesterday, which meant that a relatively small amount of selling triggered additional orders to sell as prices moved down. At this time of year traders are nervous becomes of the analysis. traders are nervous because of the approach of year-end and holiday vacations. Several major soybean oil processors "down time" over the holidays—days when operations are closed. This will give them time to work off a heavy surplus of soybean meal, especially in the West. By implication it means they will be buyng fewer beans to process in the next weeks. The processors crush the beans into oil, used in many food products, and into meal, use in animal feed.

There has been talk that the Soviet Union may have overbought wheat and corn in the United States, in view of the late improvement in its own production.

Problems Noted in Cocoa Trouble has been brewing in the world cocoa market, based on a rumor that a French concern has been unable to meet ome commitments to deliver cocoa beans. It is not known yet whether the French company has hedged its sales to importers by purchasing futures on either the Paris, London or New York cocoa exchanges. Traders noted that the Paris. exchanges. Traders noted that the Paris cocoa exchange is a weak one. They point out that a few years ago during the extreme sugar shortage the French sugar exchange was in effect out of business for more than a year because of the failure of a French sugar concern and that even now it is not very active. The London and New York cocoa axchanges are considered strong financially. The are considered strong financially. The cocoa involved is Ivory Coast cocoa, the quantity is not known.

What printer treats your IO-K as if it were written by Longfellow?

Sorg! Great printing.

Remembering what Longfellow's Priscilla said to John Alden, we've decided it's time for Sorg to speak for itself.

Most of the time, we're too busy helping other companies do their communicating in print to think about our own message. We're involved with everything from choosing paper to setting type. We know the difference between a 10-K and an 8-K. We know what the SEC wants-and when. And we've been helping our clients deliver it-for over half a century.

Come to think of it—the best way to speak for ourselves is to show you all we've done for others—and can do for you. Just call us and tell us when.

Advertising

New Research for Small Magazines

By PHILIP H. DOUGHERTY

There are magazines, which though small in circulation are big in impact, that are frequently hampered when it comes to selling their advertising space because of a lack of adequate reliable audience research data.

Although they may be included in such spedicated studies as W. R. Simmons and the Target Group Index, they are in the words of Eckart Guethe. "constantly in danger of being butch-ered because their circulation bases are Suethe is research director of Min. Salethe is research director of New York and New West imagazines and of The Village Voice, and he knows that in a big national random sampling of consumers a magazine with less than one million circulation will surely be underrepresented and the findings concerning its audience suspect.

That's why he and a number of other people in publishing are enthusiastic about a research project completed by Erdds & Morgan on their primary readers (subscribers) and primary households. While it may not supply the total audience figures, it does give an in-

They are Americans, Black Enterprise, Cue, Dun's Review, Fortune, Hollywood Reporter, Money, New York, Saturday Review, Signature, Town & Country, Travel & Leisure and the seven magazines (like Commentary and the New York Review of Books) that make up the Leadership Group.

They range in circulation from 12,070 to 758,000 but most are between 200,000 and 600,000.

Though most of them have conducted

200,000 and 600,000.

Though most of them have conducted their own subscriber research, they were not comparable to other publications' research. That was a handicap.

Erdos & Morgan is a respected specialist in research through mailed questiomaires. For its "Comparable Profile Measurement of Subscribers and Subscriber Households," it sent out 28,000 questionnaires representing a systematic sampling of each subscriber list. There was a 61 percent return.

There was a 61 percent return.

During an interview yesterday, Arthur Morgan said he really didn't feel free to release information om individual magazines. Collectively, however, he reported that there was a median household income of $28,000 while 78 percent were in business or the professions and 85 percent went to college. Interesting, but not helpful.

Each subscriber, who paid $13,500 for inclusion, is getting a copy of the study and so will the top 100 agencies. Anyone else who wants one will have to pay $50.

Those 100 agencies will, at a later time, get letters from the research firm soliciting their comments and suggestions for the study, which Erdos & Mortander and suggestions for the study, which Erdos & Mortander and suggestions for the study, which Erdos & Mortander and suggestions for the study, which Erdos & Mortander and suggestions for the study, which Erdos & Mortander and suggestions for the study, which Erdos & Mortander and suggestions for the study.

Dubious Awards Battle'

Among the readers of the Nov. 22 ad headlined "So far this year News-week has won 29 awards for editorial excellence" were some folks at Time

Henry A. Grunewald, managing editor of Time, even referred to it in a staff memo in which he noted that to get that number Newsweek had to include honorable mentions as well as second and third places. "This may all sound a little petry, but we might as well keep this record straight," he wrote." Asked about this, Bill Scherman, pro-otion director of Newsweek, characterized the matter as awards battle" and said that Time was including awards for graphics in its published total (36). Without them, judged on pure journalism, he said, Newsweek would still be ahead 16 to 13.

GAF's New Theme

Washington & Business

Impact of Congressional Reshuffling

WASHINGTON-Almost overlooked in all the attention being paid to Jimmy Carter's selections for his Administration and the fighting over the top Congressional leadership posts is a little-noticed reshuffling thet could alter the workings of the 95th Congress.

There may not be any great and immediate ideological swings in the thrust of tha legislation drafted by the new Congress that convenes Ian. 4 since the size of the heavy Democratic majorities in the Senate and House of Representatives will be little changed from the 94th Congress.

But for the hydroger.

But for the business, financial, labor and other interests who regularly deal with Congress, the reshuffling will bring a number of new personalities—and even new committees—to contend

In the House an intricate form of musical chairs touched off by retire-ments, election defeats and other fectors will bring new chairmen to at least seven of the 22 standing committees and to perhaps two dozen of its subcommittees when the House commit-tees are reconstituted next month.

At the same time, the Senata will be considering the most sweeping changes in its committee structure in 30 years, and as things now stand new appointments will not be made to any of the committees until it approves the details of the reorganization.

On the House side, there will be new thairnen for these committees: Budget, Interior International Relations Mer

Interior, International Relations, Merchant Marine and Fisberies, Post Office and Civil Service, Public Works and Transportation and Rules.

While House committee chairmen may not have the power to control their committees that they once had, the choice of a chairman can still set the tona and influence the effectiveness of a committee.

For instance, Representative Brock Adams, a Washington Democrat, gained wide respect in the House in presiding over the House Budget Committee, which helped to get the new Congressional budget process nff to a successful start the last two years.

Mr. Adams, under the rules of the Democratic caocus, had been ineligible to bold another term as chairman of the Budget Committee and has been nominated to be Secretary of Transportation in the Carter Cabinet. This has touched off a four-way scramble for a new committee chairman, which will be critically important to the new President because the Budget Commit-fee will play a key role in setting the limits on Federal spending and revenue.

. The Democratic contenders are Representatives Robert N. Giaimo of Connecticut, a liberal who is regarded by. some as the front runner, Thomas L. Ashley of Ohlo, Neal Smith of Iowa and Fortney H. (Pete) Stark of Califor-

There also will be more subtle but important changes on other major House committees. For example, as of now there are six vacancies among tha 25 Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee, which could bring younger and more liberal members to

A much more sweeping overbaul of committees is being considered by the Senate that could if epproved, require some constituencies and interest groups to establish new relationships with new committees.

A bipartisan Senate committee, beaded by Adlai E. Stevenson 3d, Democrat of Illinois, bas recommended that the number of Senate committees be re-duced to 15 from the current 31, that Senators be limited to the number of committee assignments they could hold that the current 176 subcommit-

It is not yet clear bow many of the proposed changes will take place since the proposal still faces approval by the Senate Rules Committee and the full Senate. But among the major proposed changes are the following:

The Senate Agriculture Committee would take over the work of the current committees on small business and development matters.

The Commerce Committee would take over the work of the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee and would pick up jurisdiction over high-way and mass transit legislation.

clout in OPEC councils, the Saudi leadership, like lesser OPEC members, engages in grandstanding and gamesmanship to help its views prevail when the ministers meet, using the timehonored tactics of the bazaar. Thus, Sheik Yamani, along among the 13 delegation chiefs, did not divulge in advance the time of his arrival in Doha yesterday and thus, when he got here, he joited some delegations with a new call for a batf-year oil price freeze. But in remarks to reporters at Doha's heavily guarded alroort, he indicated that this position could be amended, bazaar style, through bargaining.

Similarly, Iraq's radical oil mioister, Tayib Abdel Karim, repleated his call for a 25 percent increase in the present.

for a 25 percent increase in the present base price of oil—$11.51 for a barrel of high-quality Saudi crude—sbortly before today's meeting began. But he indicated that this, too, could be bar-gained down around the meeting table.

There is much that is caucus-like about the ministerial sessions that have been beld in a variety of capitals over the years. They are private, they are smoky—many delegates are heavy smokers—they involve the reconciling of diverse constituencies interests, and they involve the mingling of persocal-ity and power.

Much of the maneuvering before OPEC meetings often involves the citing of world inflation statistics to justify this or that price policy demand. But some OPEC delegates are quick to acknowledge that their countries positions at the ministerial talks are politically determined they reflect such discovery accordance. diverse considerations as the vuloerable Saudi monarchy'a fear of economic instability abroad and the Shah of Iran's craving for higher oil revenues to feed his military buildup and his grandiose plans for industrial development The OPEC members' positions also reflect political sensitivity to centers of power outside the organization: a perennial desire is to head off criticism from poor third world countries that have been shaken by rising oil prices. And a new consideration is OPEC's relations with the incoming Carter Administration.

'A Normal Political Process'

"This is all a normal political process," Indenesia's scholarly oil minister, Mohammed Sadli, remarked to visitors here before today's meeting began.

In the Intense and politicized atmosphere of the ministerial meetingswhich last only a few days-the specific economic arguments for price policles that are put together by economic experts play a subordinate role. Privetely members of OPEC delegations acknowledge that the few dozen-em-ployees of the organization's secretari-at lack the facilities to undertake highquality economic research.

MEMBERSHIP-OPEC's 13 members are concentrated in the Middle East but also include members from Africa, South America and the Far East, By virtue of their large exports, Saudi Ara-bia and Iran have been the most powerful influences. The roster also includes Iraq, Kuwait, Abu Dhabi, Algeria, Gabon, Indonesia, Nigeria, Libya, Ecua-dor, Qatar and Venezuela.

HISTORY-In 1960, the nil companies, led by a predecessor of the Exxon Corporation, unilaterally reduced the posted price of oil by 4 to 14 cents a barrel. On Sept. 14, meeting in Bagh-dad, five charter members created OPEC and forced a retraction of the

Through the 1960's, a worldwide oil glut offset much of the cartel's force, but by the early 1970's, it became apparent that the surplus was quickly turning into a shortage.

In October 1973, after a series of nationalization moves in individual countries, talks in Vienna with companies over a general increase in oil prices collapsed. Acting quickly, OPEC convened in Kuwait and increased posted oil prices by 70 percent.

In December, the cartel, sensing its growing importance as an oil supplier, more than doubled the October prices and subsequent increases have brought the price of Saudi Arabian light crude—the grade against which others are priced—to $11.51 a barrel, a quin-

ISSUES—In its early days, OPEC's aim was to keep the price of nil from going down, but its present position is that future oil prices should be geared to the pace of world inflation. In the current debate, some OPEC countries have contended that the cost of Western goods that they import has risen by 40 percent or more since last year, while tha West, led by the United States, has argued that no more than a 5 percent increase is justified.

Within OPEC, there are also divisions, mostly between the Saudis, who favor small increases or oooe at all, and the Iranians, who argue for substantial rises.

OUTLOOK—So far, OPEC has shown few signs of weaknesses. During 1975, when the recession drove oil consumption substantially below productive ca-pacity, the Saudis and Kuwaitis, tha richest countries, were able to absorb the bulk of the production cutbacks. Little price cutting was reported.

But economists are increasingly pre-

City Hall Receptive, Berger In By Planned Transit Service

The New York City Transit Authority's proposal to curtail sharply some bus and subway services, particularly at night, io order to cut $30 million from its budget, brought a mild response from officials in the Mayor's office yesterday but a burst of anger from the executive director of the State Emergency Financial Control Board.

By CHARLES MAISER

What I liou of that amount with its Triboro Bridge and Tunt while the city and state we to repay the remaining $21 r.

Mr. Burton said tradition has paid for three-quarters fie" and the city one-quarter Board. Board.

"I think, on a preliminary look, that the Transit Authority want it looks like something within the raoge of reasonahleness." said John C. Burton, Deputy Mayor for Finance, referring to the proposed service reductions, which the authority refers to as "adjustments."

Transit Authority within the raoge million through service cu proposal, the remaining $37 be covered by the "shuffi the authority refers to as "adjustments."

Transit Authority within the raoge million through service cu proposal, the remaining $37 be covered by the "shuffi the authority refers to as "adjustments."

"But there are many value judgments." repayment of $6 million of that have to be made," Mr. Burton said.

Stephen Berger, the Control Board's executive director, said that he did not know if the service reductions were necessary because his past experience with the Transit Authority was such that he Emergency Financial Committing Transit Authority committing repayment of $6 million of and the city and state har maining $31 million.

Mr. Burton said the city we decide by the end of this it would endorse these processory because his past experience with the transit Authority was such that he the Transit Authority was such that he Emergency Financial Co was "unsure" about any oumbers he re- would then have to approvo ceived from it.

Today, on the occasion of your 75th birthday, the American Museum of Natural History honors you for your many distinguished achievements by the establishment of the Margaret Mead Chair.

The Chair will be supported by the Margaret Mead Fund for the Advancement of Anthropology. It will be offered to distinguished scholars in the investigation and study of human society. It is only fitting that the Museum establish this Chair. It has been your scientific and professional home for the 50 years of your life as a world-renowned scientist.

Happy Birthday, Margaret from William Morrow

William Morrow has published you books for half a century, from Coming of Age in Samoa in 1928 to you most recent, Blackberry Winter: Will Larlier Years. We are proud of what we, have done together—many books that have brought a deeple understanding of human society. We look forward to what you may write next.

It's always a surprise.

As you wrote at the end of your autobiography, Blackberry Winter, "What is there for young anthropologists to do today? In one sense, everything. The best possible work has not yet been done. If I were 21 today, I would elect to join the communicating network of these young people the world over who recognize the urgency of life-supporting change. There is hope, I believe, in seeing the human adventure as a whole and in the shared trust that knowledge about mankind, sought in reverence for life, can bring life."

It is in the spirit of these words that the American Museum of Natural History announces the Margaret Mead Chair.

The Margaret Mead Fund for the Advancement of Anthropology has as its goal the raising of $5,000,000. Many interested people have already asked how they could take part in this tribute. Simply direct your contribution to the Margaret Mead Fund, c/o American Museum of Natural History, Central Park West at 79th, New York 10024. Contributions are tax deductible.

Happy Birthday, Margaret And From Redbook Magazine
